APPLETON TAX LEVY LOWEST AMONG CITIES

General Property Taxes
$4,830,970 Less Than for 1930 in State
PER CAPITA IS $44.47
Tax Roll Valuations in Badger Cities Drop Off First Time Since 1912

Madison—(P)—General property taxes in Wisconsin's 145 cities, which amounted to $4,447 per capita for 1931 were $4,830,970, less than the levies of 1930, the state tax commission announced today.

In 1930 the general property taxes in the cities were $7,417,194 and last year they were $7,585,223, marking the first decrease reported in the cities since 1925, the commission said.

Last year's levies were made on local property assessments of $2,404,329,364. As compared with 1930, local assessments, the same property is listed by the tax commission at full or market value of $2,026,074,067.

The local assessment for 1931 was $39,082,781 less than the 1930 assessment. This was the first time since 1912 that the tax roll valuations in the cities dropped.

The commission's bulletin shows that Adams had the highest tax rate with a levy of 44 mills on an assessed value of $6.66 per cent of full value while Appleton's levy of 18 mills on an assessment of 91.7 per cent of full value was the lowest.

Cause of Decrease

"The decrease in the local assessment," the commission said, "was due to the exemption of property by the 1931 legislature, the decrease being considerably less than the 1930 value of the property exempted. The decrease in the full value, however, was greater than the 1930 value of the property exempted and represented the first decrease in city property values in any year since 1912."

How Tax Is Divided

Of the per capita tax levy of $44.47 in the cities $2.15 was levied by the counties, $11.41 was for city purposes and $30.91 went for city schools.

The total population of the 145 cities was shown to be 1,623,388. The per capita value of the assessments locally was $1,473 and at full value, $1,845.

Of the total of 1931 levies in cities $14,929,557 went for county purposes; $28,412,959 for city purposes and $29,248,707 for schools.

In a study of the public debt the commission said that all divisions of Wisconsin government, state, county, city, village, town and school district, in 1929 had a total debt of $170,482,271.

Of this $1,483,709 was incurred by the state, $65,526,793 by counties, $89,174,036 by cities, $3,564,832 by villages, $650,484 by towns and $9,102,366 by school districts.

The state debt is a Civil war debt owed to various state trust funds by the general state treasury. The constitution places no limit upon state debts for war and permits a state debt of $100,000 for other emergency purposes.

Purposes for which the $170,482,271 in debts incurred were:

Schools, $41,129,664; public service enterprises, $7,934,978; public improvements, $53,777,928; public buildings, $9,734,350; parks, $4,134,094; refunding, $952,900; equipment, $34,895; soldiers bonus, $38,490; metropolitan sewerage, $24,366,000; war, $1,468,709; and miscellaneous, $165,472.

COOLIDGE SENDS CHECK TO SETTLE DAMAGE SUIT

St. Louis—(AP)—Former President Calvin Coolidge has sent his check for $2,500 in settlement of a court summons asking $100,000 damages, insured by Lewis Tebbetts. St. Louis insurance man, who claimed his reputation as an insurance man was damaged by a statement of Coolidge in a radio address last October.

Tebbetts, who says he is the "leading advocate in the United States of the so-called term life insurance policies," said Mr. Coolidge injured his reputation in the following statement over the air: "Beware of the so-called 'twisted' and 'abstruse' or any agent who offers to save money for you by replacing your policy in another company."

The former president was served with a summons last month at his home in Massachusetts, preparatory to the filing of a damage suit by Tebbetts. The suit was not filed, however, Tebbetts also investigated similar action against the New York Life Insurance company of which Coolidge was a director.

Three Die In Burning Wisconsin Home

Recovering

Stevens Point—(P)—Mrs. Ernestine Schumann-Heink spent a restful night at St. Michael hospital where she is confined with an attack of bronchitis and laryngitis. Hospital attendants said today.

The 70-year-old opera and concert singer slept soundly and indications were that a treatment of complete rest and quiet had started her on the road to recovery. Doctors were unwilling to say, however, when she would be able to leave the hospital.

URGE TARIFF ON PULPWOOD

Timbermen of 3 States
Want Difference in Currencies Balanced

Milwaukee—(P)—Adjustment of the tariff on imported pulpwood to protect American timberland owners and balance differences between foreign and domestic production costs and currencies was recommended in a resolution adopted at the closing session of a conference of timber operators from Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota here yesterday.

The conference, called by Earl W. Tinker, federal regional forester, also endorsed a proposal for an early regional planning conference at which representatives of local state and federal units dealing with timberland problems in the lake states would create a permanent organization.

Dr. Raphael Zon, St. Paul, director of the Lake States Forest Experimental station, W. A. Holt of Oconto, Wis., and George McCallum of Detroit, were named on a committee which will ask the secretary of agriculture to call such a conference.

The resolution concerning foreign pulpwood competition will be transmitted to congressmen from the three states. It states that pulpwood and forest products are coming into the United States duty free from countries where living standards are lower and are sold here at less than American operators can possibly produce them.

It was agreed in other resolutions that national forests in the lake states should be enlarged; that timberland should be decided to the state when its value no longer justified the carrying charges; that liquidation of virgin timber stands should be stopped if excessive tax burdens were removed; and that destructive logging of virgin timber is wasteful, uneconomic and unnecessary, but the tax problem is responsible for its continuation.

About 75 timber owners, mill operators, pulp manufacturers and public officials attended the two day meeting.

NEIGHBORS IN VAIN ATTEMPT TO SAVE TRIO

Overheated Stove or Kerosene Lamp Blamed for Arcadia Tragedy

Arcadia, Wis.—(P)—Trapped in their flaming home here, three persons, one an aged invalid, lost their lives today when fire gutted the Fred Scharlau residence.

The dead: Fred Scharlau, 87; his daughter, Ricka, 59, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Anton Scharlau.

Doctors, after preliminary examination of the bodies, said they believed the three were suffocated. Scharlau's body was the only one that was burned badly. He had died in his bed.

The flames were noticed at 6:30 a. m. by Howard Hanby, railroad section foreman, who lived nearby. He and other neighbors rushed to the burning house but the Scharlauss were dead when they reached the building.

Mrs. Scharlau had been taking care of her father-in-law for several weeks during his illness. Her husband, town of Montana farmer, was not at his father's house at the time.

No Inquest Expected

Coroner J. H. Rhodes, Whitehall, said an inquest was unlikely and stated there was little question but that the deaths were accidental.

The body of the daughter was found on the floor in an upstairs bedroom. Apparently she had attempted to flee when she awakened to find the house on fire, but was overcome by smoke. Mrs. Scharlau was discovered dead near her cot in the room next to the invalid's ground floor bedroom.

Authorities presented two theories to account for the fire—it was caused either by an overheated kitchen stove or caught from a kerosene lamp. They believed Mrs. Scharlau got up early this morning, started the fire to prepare breakfast, and then went back to bed to wait for the stove to heat. While she dozed, the flames caught and spread through the house.

FATHER ARRESTED IN DEATH OF BABY

Slapped Child to Make it
Stop Crying, He Tells Authorities

Milwaukee—(P)—Nineteen-year-old Joseph M. Coutley, whose baby, Johanna, died shortly after he slapped her in a moment of irritation because she was crying, was bound over for trial under $10,000 bond on a second degree murder charge today.

As the youthful husband walked back to his cell after his arraignment, he remarked: "I'll serve sentence gladly. I deserve it."

The nine-month-old baby died last night after physicians and firemen with an inhalator worked vainly to save its life.

Grief-stricken, his voice trembling, Coutley told George B. Skogmo, assistant district attorney, how he cared for the child yesterday while his wife, Evelyn, 23, and his mother went shopping.

"I was in the corner reading a paper when the baby started to cry. I guess I can't take care of babies very well, because it kept on crying," he said. "I walked around with it, but that didn't do any good. I finally put it back in its crib—and I guess I must have been crazy—I hit the baby hard with my hand."

"I don't know how many times I hit it, but soon the baby stopped crying. It's eyes looked funny. I became frightened. I picked the baby up and gave it a drink of water. But that didn't help. I laid it back in the crib, and every once in a while it would wail. My wife came home at 8 o'clock and called a doctor right away."

MAYOR WALKER SAYS HE'LL ANSWER CRITICS

New York—(P)—Mayor James J. Walker says he will tell his critics plenty. For some time Samuel Seabury, investigator of the city government, has been laying plans to get the mayor on the stand and ask him questions.

"The day is not far distant," the mayor said yesterday, "when I will discuss in great detail the affairs of the city of New York."

Without mentioning names, the mayor hinted his telephone wires had been tapped.

GET PRISON TERMS
Green Bay—(P)—Sentences to Wisconsin were imposed on two defendants in municipal court today. Bernard Feizer, DePere, was given a one to three year term, for abandonment, and Lowell Rivers, Chicago, a one to three year term for forgery.

Many Business Places To Close For Bachman Rites

A message of condolence from Governor Philip LaFollette was received this morning by the Fred Bachman family, and a tribute to the late city treasurer and labor leader was received by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., from Congressman George J. Schneider.

The governor's message read: "It was a shock to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Bachman, who was my good friend. Please accept my sincere sympathy and I shall endeavor to come to Appleton for the funeral service."

Congressman Schneider, lauding the work of Mr. Bachman, said: "The loyalty of Fred Bachman to the trade union movement during my association of more than a quarter century was never questioned. His passing is a distinct loss to labor and the community because of his defense of democratic institutions and his faithful and efficient public service. I share with you and the citizens of Appleton the loss of a friend and worthy fellow citizen."

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Memorial chapel by Dr. J. A. Holmes, with burial in Riverside cemetery. At 1:30 the police will block off Collegeave from Drew-st to Union-st, and it is requested that prior to that time no cars be parked in this section.

Mayor Goodland is permitting no activity in the treasurer's office, and no city action will be taken relative to naming a successor until after the funeral services.

Groves Gets Vacant Post On Tax Body

Madison—(P)—Prof. Harold M. Groves, Madison assemblyman, was appointed by Governor LaFollette to succeed E. L. Kelley of Manitowish, as a member of the state tax commission. Groves was the Progressive leader in the assembly on tax legislation at the last regular session. The appointment is effective April 1.

Kelley recently resigned to become executive director of the newly created Wisconsin Taxpayers' alliance, a non-partisan fact-finding body.

The new member of the commission is only 35 years old and he now holds the rank of associate professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin.

He was closely associated with Governor LaFollette in matters of Progressive legislation during the regular session of the legislature and perhaps will be remembered most by his authorship of the unemployment insurance law which was enacted at the recent special session as a new experiment among the states.

The man whom Groves replaces on the tax commission was in charge of the income tax field. Whether the new member will take over this work will depend upon the decision of the entire commission of three members.

William J. Conway, the present commission chairman, and Charles D. Rosa, the other member, will meet with Groves and discuss an allocation of their work before he assumes his new position.

Groves will resign from the legislature and will take a leave of absence from the university until next year when the senate, at the 1933 session must confirm his appointment.

ROYALTY AT MANILA

Manila, P. I.—(P)—Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium, and Crown Princess Astrid arrived in Manila today for a 16 day visit in the Philippines on their globe-trotting journey.

Arrest Accomplice Of Bank Teller Wanted At Racine

Los Angeles—(P)—Texas authorities were notified to be on the lookout today for Charles Harvey, 23, Racine, Wis., bank teller, accused of embezzling $37,000, after the arrest here of his admitted accomplice, Ralph Baughard, 26, and the death of $10,000.

Detectives said Baughard admitted he recovered money was part of the Racine loot and that they learned Harvey had gone to Texas two weeks ago. He is believed to be in Laredo.

Officers searched Baughard's room yesterday on reports that he had been spending freely although with no visible means of support. They reported finding some of the money still bound in paper bands bearing the imprint of the American Trades and Savings bank at Racine. They got in touch with Racine officers and learned that Harvey and Baughard disappeared Dec. 12.

Detectives quizzed Baughard as saying that he and Harvey went to Texas from Racine. There they split the loot and Baughard bought a $10,000 automobile, coming here two months ago.

Beyond this Baughard would say little except that "we had a good time while it lasted, but now we were caught—well, what's the use of talking?"

Harvey, 26, was arrested with Baughard. Davis, officers said, had been going to do with the embezzlement. They said they understood that he was a hitch-hiker picked up in Texas and befriended by Baughard and Harvey.

TO ISSUE WARRANT
Racine—(P)—On receipt of a telegram from Police Chief R. E. Steckel of Los Angeles, confirming the arrest of Ralph Baughard, 26, accused of conspiracy in the embezzlement of $37,000 from a local bank, District Attorney Charles Prudent today said he expected to issue a warrant against Baughard and to take steps to return him to the state.

WOMAN, HIT BY FIVE BULLETS, IS NEAR DEATH

Chicago Radio Engineer Accused of Shooting
Near Racine

Racine—(P)—Miss Laura Thally, 24, of Racine, lay near death today in St. Luke hospital, five bullet wounds in her body, while Racine and Chicago police sought Charles Rogers, described as a wealthy Chicago radio engineer, as her assailant.

The hunt was intensified by a statement made to police by Leslie Long, a factory foreman and Rogers' brother-in-law, who expressed fear the engineer "might have done away" with his sister, who supposedly divorced Rogers about nine months ago, and then disappeared.

It was Long who found Miss Thally lying in a pool of blood at a cottage on Root river near here last night as he returned after spending Tuesday night there with Rogers. Miss Thally and a woman companion whose identity was not disclosed. He said he and the woman who accompanied him returned to Racine yesterday morning to permit him to go to work.

Physicians at the hospital said Miss Thally regained consciousness long enough at the hospital to tell the authorities Rogers shot her without provocation as she stood at the kitchen sink washing dishes.

Surgeons, who performed an emergency operation, said they found five bullets in her body. The police found another in the kitchen wall.

Long, after he related the story of the party to the police, asked permission to spend the night in the city jail, fearing violence from Rogers.

He said nine months ago Rogers came to Racine from Chicago and informed him his sister, Cecelia, had obtained a divorce. Long declared he has not heard a word from her since then. Rogers also told him, he said, that he married Thally about six months ago.

Physicians at the hospital early today gave her only 24 hours to live. One bullet grazed the back of her head and laid open the brain. Two lodged in her neck and two more in her upper left arm.

CLUB WOMAN CLAIMS CLUE IN KIDNAPING

Philadelphia—(P)—Mrs. Walter C. Hancock, prominent club woman, who says she was visited by a woman who believed she had a good clue to the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, said today the investigation being conducted by Philadelphia police might take a week or two.

Mrs. Hancock, the wife of a coal dealer, said she was not at liberty to give the name of the woman. "She is not sensational and has no desire to capitalize in any way upon what she knows of the case," Mrs. Hancock said.

"She is certain from the actions of certain people she knows that the baby is in Philadelphia, or nearby, at least. The detectives are running down her clues."

"The woman came to me in good faith and said she knew something about the case. She explained very fully what prompted her to call me, and the police were satisfied."

PROBE ORDERED ON CHARGES BY GLASS

Senate Group to Investigate Alleged Conspiracy to Beat
Banking Bill

Washington—(P)—The senate banking sub-committee considering the Glass banking revision measure today agreed unanimously to make an inquiry into the charge of Senator Glass (D. Va.), that an organized conspiracy exists in the banking community to defeat the legislation.

No time has been fixed by the sub-committee, headed by Senator Glass, to start the investigation. The committee already has authority for the inquiry, acting under a resolution adopted more than a year ago by the senate for a study of the whole banking situation.

"We will undertake to determine," Glass said, "who instigated this concerted attack on the bill. I think it is obvious to those who heard the hearings that concept of action was taken. Witnesses after witnesses repeated testimony that others had said."

The banking law revision goes back to the ranks of the government, but from the whole committee, it will be developed at a meeting next Tuesday and Glass is confident of prompt action. Some modifications will be made, he said.

Because of the direct and serious effect of the banking law, a considerable number of the legislation has set through congress this session.

STUDENTS ASK QUIZ IN KENTUCKY MINE AREA

Washington—(P)—A federal investigation of conditions in the coal mine areas of Harlan and Boone, Kentucky, was set before a group of students here today. The students were asked to prepare a report on the conditions in the coal mine areas of Harlan and Boone, Kentucky, was set before a group of students here today.

Rio Hall of the University of Kentucky, leader of the party and chairman of the committee, appeared before the senators, declared an inquiry was warranted on the following grounds:

Actions of county officials; violations of the constitutional rights of inhabitants and visitors; actions of the coal mine operators and the results of the three on the miners.

With a number of the students, Hall spoke to Senator Costigan (D. Colo.), Copeland (D. N. Y.) and Leavelle (D. N. Y.) at an informal meeting. Costigan is coauthor with Senator Cutting (R. N. M.) of a pending resolution for a senatorial inquiry.

Thirty-two Today

Thilworth, Eng.—(P)—The Duke of Gloucester, third son of King George and Queen Mary, worked on through his thirty-second birthday today, carrying out the normal routine of an army officer with the Eleventh Hussars regiment in the military camp here. Congratulations from the king and queen, the prince of Wales and other members of the royal family reached him early today.

MAIL FLIER IS DEAD IN CRASH

Night Mail Plane Plunges to Earth Near Cleveland
Land Suburb

Cleveland—(P)—Pilot Forrest Mallick, carrying the night mail from New York to Cleveland, flew to his death in a fog and rainstorm before dawn today.

His body was found in an open field known as "the jungle" near Bedford, Cleveland suburb, after a search of several hours.

Mallick had been flying the New York-Cleveland night mail for the United Air lines for the last eight months. He was within a few miles of the Cleveland airport when death overtook him. He was due here at 3 a. m., and at 2:30 the radio station at Parkman, east of here, reported him overhead.

A few minutes later he ran into bad weather, apparently lost himself and crashed. His body still wrapped in the pilot's seat of his open cockpit plane, was found after farmers, hearing a low-flying plane and the din of a crash, notified police of several nearby towns.

Mallick had switched off the ignition, evidently knowing he was going to crash.

The pilot was 34 and single. His home was in Newark, N. J., and his mother lives in Seymour, Ind. He obtained his training at the army station at Selfridge field, Mich.

Mallick's death was the first accident on the New York to Cleveland run since the day before Christmas, when Pilot James O. Johnson was forced to leap from his ship near the mountain straits of Pennsylvania. He was not hurt. Two years ago Thomas H. Nelson was killed when he flew into a snow storm near Clarion, Pa., a suburb.

BANK RECEIVER SUES TO COLLECT $34,800

Milwaukee—(P)—L. J. Rowatch, receiver for the McFarlane National bank, Green Bay, has filed two suits in federal court here to collect $34,800 allegedly due the bank on promissory notes.

One suit for $10,000 plus interest, names S. H. Radin, E. N. Murphy, L. Markin, F. P. Kress and W. P. Markin. The other claim is for $24,800 and interest against Cady, Murphy, Markin and John P. Jensen. The notes were discounted in 1925.

MINERS STRIVING TO RESCUE CHILD FROM DRILL HOLE

Picher, Okla.—(P)—Miners were making desperate efforts today to rescue a three-year-old boy who disappeared in a narrow drill hole at a lead and zinc mine near here.

The child, the son of Paul Collins, mine worker, fell down the hole while playing. He was believed to be stunned but still alive. The hole was too small to permit rescue workers to be lowered.

The child was wedged about 15 feet below the surface. The hole at the top is 24 inches wide and tapers as it goes down to a depth of 250 feet.

A mine horse was dropped about the boy's head but efforts to dislodge him were futile.

A mine blower was used to supply air.

TAMMANY BLOC LOSES BATTLE AGAINST LEVY

Bond Transfers and Sale of Produce on Exchanges

FINAL VOTE TOMORROW
Stock Sales Tax Expected to Produce About 75 Million, Estimate

Washington—(P)—The house today stretched a revenue-raising hand toward Wall Street.

Over the opposition of the Tammany delegation, it voted a tax of one-fourth of one per cent on the transfer value of stock sales, and then took up other proposals to put levies on bond transfers and the sale of produce on exchanges. The stock sales tax was estimated to produce $75,000,000.

Another vote on it will be had tomorrow before the final action on the bill. The amendment does not apply on original issues.

A few minutes later, it adopted another amendment by the committee to put an assessment of 5 cents on each $100 sale of cotton, grain and produce sold on those exchanges.

In the case of the stock sales, it voted to make the tax effective on orders placed by persons in this country for buying or selling on foreign exchanges.

In debate, members construed the taxes as a blow at short selling.

There still was to be acted upon an amendment to put a tax of 1-2 of one per cent on bond transactions.

In accepting it, the house again followed the course mapped out for it by the ways and means committee but the original proposal was altered by the adoption of an amendment by Representative LaGuardia (D. N. Y.) under which the tax bill will be imposed on all orders placed by persons in this country for buying and selling stocks on foreign exchanges. He said it was designed to meet the threat that traders would transfer their operations to Canada.

The house rejected an amendment to put a 1 per cent tax on stock transfers.

The amendment was adopted while the committee awaited a new estimate from the treasury of the income that might be expected from the revisions of the new revenue bill.

Prepares for Votes

The house pushed ahead today toward completion of the billion dollar revenue bill and prepared for separate votes tomorrow on levies on automobiles, war time surpluses and estate taxes, coal and oil import levies and on stock transfers.

As the ways and means committee went into executive session to consider final drafts of new amendments to be substituted for the defeated sales tax. Acting Chairman Crisp said indications were that five separate votes would be demanded when the bill comes to the stage for final passage.

The amendments drafted by the committee for submission today were calculated to produce $24,000,000 of revenue and bring the bill's total to $34,800,000. Another proposal considered in addition to these calls for a revision of the depreciation allowances of corporations, so as to bring in $10,000,000 more.

Savings of $13,000,000 in appropriations and postoffice expenses are expected to round out the program to meet the projected $124,000,000 revenue deficit in 1933.

Representative Cramer (R. Minn.) served notice he would demand a separate vote on the 5 per cent tax on automobiles, the 2 per cent levy on trucks and the 1 per cent assessment on accessories, which are expected to yield $17,000,000.

He charged the levy was discriminatory and that the automobile industry has done more to bring about prosperity than any other industry.

Majority Leader Rainey said

Congress Likely To Vote Full Payment Of Soldiers' Bonus

LEADERS ARE ALARMED OVER COMING VOTE

Many Members Against Legislation but May "Pass Buck" to President

Washington—(AP)—The bill calling for two billion dollars to full payment of the soldier bonus has given leaders already occupied with the effort to balance the federal budget, another problem to solve. Party leaders say the bill is likely to pass the house, and possibly the senate. Proponents of the bonus bill said today they have more than the necessary 145 members to sign a petition to compel a vote in the house, should the ways and means committee fail to report it.

Washington—(AP)—Rarely in the history of the nation has the struggle to raise revenues to balance the federal budget, congressional leaders are faced with a probability that the membership will vote a $2,000,000,000 full payment of the soldier bonus.

The situation is distinctly alarming to them. Informed spokesmen of both parties believe there is little doubt that a bill to cash the adjusted service certificates will pass the house, and the possibility of the same action in the senate is admitted. This will leave the issue up to President Hoover's promised veto, and the critical question of marshaling enough votes to support that veto.

Democratic leaders expect to do this, but said today they considered President Hoover's recent public utterances against the bill a tactical blunder—a move that invites doubtful members to place too much reliance on him to kill a bill which they prefer to vote for but do not wish to see enacted. Vetoes on similar bills have been overridden often enough.

Speaker Garner is keeping silent, but it is very clear the leaders in both parties consider this legislation a grave threat to the government's financial stability. Its supporters contend their plan would not unbalance the budget, it would merely inflate the currency by about two billion dollars. But the industry features of the proposed legislation considered so impossible by so many, that it is not generally expected to prevail.

Economy Question

The plan's opponents intend to rely heavily on arguing the incongruity of a congress which is saddling an additional billion dollar tax burden on the people, scrapping and paring all expenditures, turning around to vote $2,000,000,000 in additional outlays. They are praying too for a sufficiently strong demonstration of popular sentiment against such an enormous expenditure, to convince the members that they stand to gain by opposing the bill.

Advocates of bonus payment claim they have already more than the needed 145 members ready to sign a petition to compel a house vote on the legislation if the ways and means committee refuses to report it to the house. They have a pledge also from Democratic Floor Leader Rainey and Acting Chairman Crisp of the committee, that they will be given a hearing as soon as the tax bill is sent to the senate.

This is now expected by the weekend, so the bonus question will not be long delayed.

THINKS WASHINGTON FORESAW PRESENT ERA

Plymouth—(AP)—John B. Chapline, Ashland editor and Wisconsin chairman of the Republican Crusaders, said in a talk at a dinner sponsored by the Lions club here last night, that George Washington foresaw the troubled times now existing in this country.

"The warning sounded by George Washington to guard against false leaders who aim to undermine faith in our American system of individualism and economic reward for individual effort, to guard against the destruction of our standards of morals, and to defend our institutions of free religious worship, are more seriously to be taken to heart today than at the time Washington included them in his farewell address," Chapline said. "Washington actually foresaw what is taking place now."

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO ELECT OFFICERS

The first meeting of the newly organized Outagamie Pioneer and Historical society will be held at 7:00 Thursday evening in the Insurance building in Wisconsin. The meeting is being held at the Hotel Wisconsin, and will be presided over by the society's president, Mr. J. H. Schaefer. Directors are to be elected and plans for a definite program will be outlined.

Hands For Bridge Tourney Betrayed By "Black Sheep"

New York—(AP)—A leak named on some unknown "black sheep" caused a furore today as 50 "A" contract bridge friends all over the world prepared to play in the "World Bridge Olympiad."

The "World Bridge Olympiad" is sponsored by the National Bridge association, an Ely Culbertson organization. At exactly 5:31 p. m., tomorrow, the 30,000 of them will play in hands, most of them brick hands. Gold and silver trophies to the number of 350 are the rewards.

The hands were sent out by Ely Culbertson's organization to 1,600 "game" copies were given them to them until a few minutes before the "olympics."

Yesterday, the New York Times received a neat white folder presenting the largest of the hands. Other copies were reported to have drifted

THE BATTLE IS NOT WON

It is much too early to sound the tocsin and announce that Congress has balanced the budget. All that has happened so far is that a sufficient semblance of order and discipline has been restored in the House to bring it to make a general declaration of principle. The House has pledged itself. But the application of that principle and the fulfillment of that pledge are not yet in sight. The political difficulties have not yet been surmounted. The pressure of special interests has not yet been defeated.

If, then, the country relaxes because it is led to suppose that Mr. Hoover's speech and the remarks of the insurgents mean that the House is really ready, as some are saying hopefully, to balance the budget no matter what it may cost in the way of sacrifices, the surrender of personal opinions or abandonment of positions taken, a rude awakening is ahead of it. All we can be reasonably sure of is that the House will throw together some sort of revenue bill which theoretically balances the present budget, and then pass the matter on to the Senate.

There is, as yet, no real assurance that the new tax bill, which has been so hastily contrived over the weekend, will really do what it is intended to do. The burden of proof is on its sponsors. We know that in the considered opinion of the Ways and Means Committee a very different bill was called for, and something more than the emotions of Tuesday afternoon are needed to prove that the new measure is what it purports to be. The estimation of tax yields in times like these is at best a very difficult and tricky business. A tax bill hastily thrown together in the hysterical atmosphere of the last few days must be looked at skeptically.

But even if we take the best possible view of the new bill we cannot avoid asking for more specific assurances than those which Speaker Garner persuaded the House to give. Did the House mean when the members rose from their seats to declare in favor of balancing the budget

Dry Leader In Warm Praise Of President

Chicago—(AP)—A warning that prohibitionists must be "aroused from lethargy," if they want a dry president and vice president elected next fall has been sounded by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance union.

Speaking before delegates to a W. C. T. U. conference yesterday, she endorsed President Hoover for another term as a man "whose brain is clear of the fumes of liquor" and declared a dry victory in the presidential election would serve to stem "the tide of the wet attack."

She pleaded with prohibitionists to interest themselves with qualifications of candidates, and observed that "which the present great problem to face, we need a man whose brain is clear of liquor and who does not owe allegiance to the liquor interests."

"Too little attention," she said, "is being paid to the qualifications for office of many candidates. Hundreds of men are running for office with no qualifications, and merely claim to be 'wet.' The drys must realize their candidates must be capable of holding office."

Upholding President Hoover's qualifications, she said, "if any other man had been president during the present depression, Mr. Hoover would have been the man sent for to save the country and do what he did in flood relief and in Belgium."

STUDIES EDUCATION

WORK AT 5 SCHOOLS

Minneapolis—(AP)—Adult education projects of five universities will be studied by a Minnesota educational psychologist under the Carnegie foundation grant.

Provision of $10,000 to survey methods and results was announced yesterday by Dr. R. R. Price, head of the University of Minnesota Extension division.

Dr. Herbert Sorensen will be in charge. The institutions are the Universities of Minnesota, Texas, Virginia, Wisconsin and California at Berkeley.

Mr. Vance said a leisurely study of the hands by players who got advance copies would give them an advantage and make a farce of the tournament. Mr. Culbertson said he'd bet $1,000 to $1 Mr. Vance and Mrs. Madeline Kerwin, another bridge enemy of Mr. Culbertson's, couldn't come within 60 per cent of "par" even by bidding and playing the hands fully exposed. "Par" is the score Mr. Culbertson considers the best result obtainable through sound bidding and play.

PROGRESS MADE TOWARD PEACE IN FAR EAST

Breakdown Averted Between Chinese and Japanese Negotiators

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS

Associated Press Staff Correspondent

Shanghai—(AP)—Definite progress towards a settlement of the major issue of withdrawal of Japanese troops from the Shanghai area was made today at the re-opening of the Sino-Japanese peace parleys.

As a result a breakdown of the conference, anticipated by some observers during the two-day adjournment, was averted and the delegates resumed their discussions in a more conciliatory mood than since the parley began.

A spokesman for the conference said both sides were gradually approaching an understanding on the question of a time limit for the troop withdrawal, and that mutual concessions were being made. The conference adjourned again to meet at 10 a. m. Saturday.

The military sub-committee which is meeting at the same time as the main conference also made important advances. It was stated when the Chinese members showed a willingness to meet the Japanese half way in setting the limits of the Japanese retreatment.

Although previously the Chinese had insisted on complete withdrawal by the Japanese forces into the international settlement they agreed this morning tentatively to extend these limits to include a strip along the Whangpoo river north of the settlement and a larger area in the Chapel district than they were willing to concede heretofore.

Many questions still remain to be decided, however, before a complete harmony between the negotiators can be reached. Under their most recent concessions, the Japanese have agreed to withdraw into four separated districts, as follows:

- 1-The Woosung zone, including the railway yards and docks.
- 2-Hongkew park, including a small sector of Chapel extending a mile east of the Woosung railway.
- 3-The Yangtzepoo district, including the present Japanese headquarters at the Kungshai cotton mill and the adjacent area, extending a mile outside the settlement boundaries.
- 4-The vicinity of the Kiangwan race course, east of the village of Kiangwan.

The Chinese, on the other hand, have refused to concede the Woosung district, although they have agreed to permit the Japanese to use a strip of territory between the Woosung railway yards and the northwest edge of the settlement. They also have objected to the Japanese using the Kiangwan district and using portion of Chapel west of the railway.

No Further Concession. The Japanese declared they were unwilling to make any further concessions because it would be impossible to quarter their 50,000 troops and 5,000 horses in a smaller area. They announced, however, for the first time, that they would be willing to set a time limit for their withdrawal into any zone agreed upon, but that the final withdrawal from the Shanghai zone must depend on circumstances.

The negotiators agreed this morning that the Chinese forces would remain in their present positions. All the delegates expressed themselves as pleased with the results of the morning session. United States Minister Nelson T. Johnson said the situation was "extremely hopeful." The official report dropped the usual matter-of-fact tone and said "distinct progress" had been made.

Augusta, Ga. — Councilman Scott Nixon, who likes psychology experts, broke all traffic laws for three months. No one arrested him. He blames the political system, not the cops. "They need their jobs," he says.

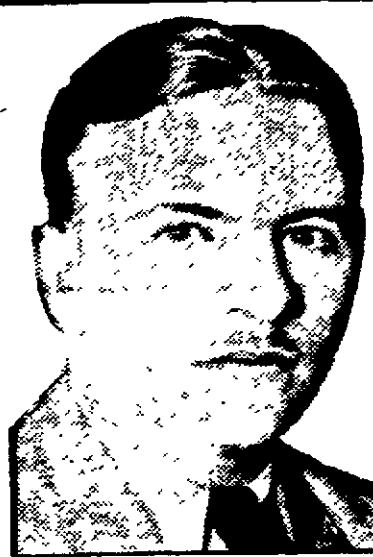

It follows that if the emergency use of public credit is to be effective, the public credit must be beyond reproach. But if the government has to borrow great sums of money to pay its current expenses, if the government's own revenues are not enough to pay its bills, the government is deprived of the strength to support the private credit of the nation. It becomes another corporation in the red and by all odds the greatest. Therefore, the balancing of the budget is peculiarly necessary. The situation is the exact opposite of the war years when the government was running huge deficits in a country where prices and profits were booming. Today prices are collapsed and profits are largely deficits and it is the government itself which must be solvent if private credit is to be tied over.

The balancing of the budget and the measures to sustain private credit can not of themselves do more than prevent things from becoming worse. But it is necessary that if they are ever to become better, if the government credit is to be restored, the government will be forced to all central control and the world crisis will be liquidated here not by orderly adjustment and concerted and considered measures. But by a great financial and economic disaster. This is no alarmist prophecy. This is the lesson of the experience of dozens of countries and it is experienced students of the matter.

The problem is understood better about than it is here. For since the war Europe has twice gone through the experience which now confronts us. When Europeans sold dollars on the budget, when Europeans withdrew their deposits or sent selling American securities they are not moved by hostility to America. They have put their money in America because they hoped it would be safe here. When they take flight and start to withdraw it they are moved by the memories of the agonies they themselves have suffered because their legislatures lacked the courage to protect the national credit. They do not believe there is any magic by which the United States could escape the consequences of the same failure. Their action is therefore, genuinely significant as a practical judgment on the merits of the question.

Denies Charge

Both a Senate subcommittee and the Chicago federal grand jury have entered investigation of charges by Frank J. Loesch, head of the Chicago Crime Commission, that high officials are supporting an attempt by Al Capone to block promotion of Judge James H. Wilkerson, who sentenced Capone, to the circuit court of appeals. William Parrillo, assistant U. S. district attorney, shown above, immediately sued Loesch for $250,000 damage because Loesch called him a "known partisan of Capone's" in a wire to the Senate committee.

HAWAIIAN TRIAL TO OPEN MONDAY

Eye Witness of Abduction Will Open Testimony for Prosecution

Honolulu—(AP)—Eddie Uhi, the only admitted eye witness of the abduction of Joseph Kahahawai, has been named to open the prosecution's attempt to convict an eastern society woman and three naval men of Honolulu's most sensational lynching. The trial starts Monday.

John C. Kelley, public prosecutor, announced yesterday his first witness would be Uhi, cousin of the young Hawaiian.

It was Uhi's report to police Jan. 8 of the abduction at the judiciary building here that led to the finding of Kahahawai's body later in a motor car driven by Mrs. Granville Fortescue of New York and Washington.

The victim had been accused of being one of five men who attacked Mrs. Fortescue's daughter, Mrs. Thomas H. Massie.

Mrs. Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieutenant Massie, and two enlisted men, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, face murder charges.

Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis plans to open court sessions daily at 9 a. m. and close at noon (2:30 p. m., to 5:30 p. m., eastern standard time). This action would be taken largely out of consideration for Clarence Darrow, 75-year-old leader of the defense, who was taken ill last week.

ROADS ARE IN BAD SHAPE, CARRIERS SAY

Because of alternate thawing and freezing, with frost gradually working itself out of the ground, many unpaved roads in Outagamie county are in bad condition, some of them being almost impassable, according to rural mail carriers. Several carriers report that they are obliged to seek detours in some sections of the county because of impassable highways. County Trunk E near Twelve Corners is one of the worst, it was stated.

WAGES REDUCED BY SHEET METAL WORKERS

Officers of the union are: Herman Heling, president; John Altenhofen, vice president; Leonard Schreiter, secretary; John Ehke, treasurer.

LIBRARY SHOWS BIG INCREASE IN CIRCULATION

203,035 Books Taken Out During Year, Miss Florence Day Reports

With the circulation of the Appleton public library reaching 203,035 during 1931, the annual report of Miss Florence Day, librarian, shows an increase of 26,393 over 1930, or an average monthly gain of 2,199-plus books. Of this large gain the increase in the adult department was 17,959, and in the juvenile department, 1,434.

The largest circulation was, as usual, in the fiction class, 150,633 fiction volumes being loaned during the year. The number of non-fiction books circulated was 48,533. There were 3,361 unbound periodicals and 1,508 foreign books loaned.

The gain in book stock during the year was 2,225 volumes, bringing the total number of the books on the shelves up to 35,950. Of this number 26,327 are in the adult department and 9,623 in the juvenile department. Only 353 volumes were withdrawn during the year.

During the past year the binding of all issues of the Appleton Post-Crescent from 1920 to the present time was completed at a cost of $375.

The increased leisure time of unemployed persons has brought on a greater demand for books, and the library reading room is being put to a greater use than ever before in its history.

Improvements at the library during the past year have included the removal of the cataloguing department to the basement, the renovation of the reference room, the addition of many decorative articles in

Reno Looking For Busy Time In Divorce Industry

Reno, Nev.—(AP)—Reno attorneys see prosperous days ahead for the divorce industry after one of the quietest winters in years. Last firms are receiving scores of inquiries from prospective clients: "For Rent" signs are disappearing from apartment house windows; hotel rooms are being reserved weeks ahead, and even the neighboring dude ranches are beginning to show something akin to last summer's activity.

The vanguard of the unhappily wed has already arrived and every train and airplane adds to the divorce colony.

Roger Q. Williams, trans-Atlantic aviator, is expected to head the first real court rush of the year next Monday. He has indicated he will file suit that day to divorce Carrie T. Williams, his war-time bride.

Mrs. Josephine "Fifi" Widener Holden, daughter of Joseph E. Widener, multi-millionaire Philadelphia sportsman, has announced she will file against Milton W. Holden. They married in 1928 shortly after her divorce from Carter Randolph Leidy, with whom she eloped in 1920 when only 17.

Waite Hoyt, "boy wonder" of baseball's 1921 world series, will be defendant in the action contemplated by Dorothy Fyle Hoyt, who arrived here in mid-February. Their romance began in a high school in Brooklyn and ended with their separation a year ago. Hoyt now is pitching for the Brooklyn club of the National League.

Still another expected to file early in the year is the case of the Children's room, the change in location of the main desk, to facilitate the new charging system installed the first of the year; and the addition of andirons for the two fireplaces, permitting open fires during the winter months.

Scientists were talking about these conditions today at a meeting of the American Oriental society at the University of Chicago. Evidence of these disturbed business conditions was presented by W. H. Dobberstein of the institute. His study of clay tablets found in the affected region, he said, told the story. He suggested that internal difficulties of the Persian administration were responsible.

THEY HAD A REAL BUSINESS CRISIS WAY BACK 450 B. C.

Chicago—(AP)—Folks who complain times aren't what they used to be should know of the big business upheaval they had back in 450 B. C. over in Assyria-Babylonia.

It was so bad that prevailing rates of interest and commodity prices shot up to twice their previous level. A person couldn't buy a bushel of dates or barley without paying half a shekel, which was two times as high as the former level, and if he wanted to borrow a little money the rate was something like 40 per cent a year.

4-H CLUB WORK IS EXPANDING. KIWANIS TOLD

Program Elevates Character of Rural Boys and Girls, Leader Says

During the past 50-years 4-H club work in the United States has advanced rapidly and last year there were 856,000 boys and girls taking active part in club projects. T. L. Bewick, Madison, state club leader, told the Kiwanis club at the weekly luncheon at Conway hotel Wednesday afternoon.

He said the movement also is gaining considerable impetus in foreign countries, especially among the English speaking countries. Last year 100,000 children were members of clubs in Canada, 40,000 belonged to similar groups in Denmark and 73,000 in Sweden.

Discussing present life on the average American farm, Mr. Bewick declared that the moral conditions of the rural life are worse than those of city youth. He blamed the automobile for this moral decline, pointing out that these youngsters, unsatisfied with life on the farm are found in the city much of the time, generally doing nothing.

"The 4-H club, with its program of individual projects for these youngsters, is doing much to elevate the moral character of these boys and girls," he said. It gives them an opportunity to make use of their idle moments.

Membership Growing
"There is no depression in club work, and although there were many who thought boys and girls were losing interest in the work the state organization last year had 31,834 members. In 1930 there were 28,514 members.

Analyzing the programs of other organizations, Mr. Bewick said he believed that the 4-H club program is better than that of the Boy Scouts of America movement, because the club program is centered about the home.

The speaker said he was convinced boys and girls like to work, providing they get jobs in which they are especially interested. He said that the little jobs offered through 4-H club programs have been proving unusually successful.

Claiming that the average farmer is a poor business man, the speaker said the club program affords ample opportunity for rural boys to get a business education, helping them in later life, whether employed on the farm or in the city. He said the youngsters are learning economic methods of farming, computing their own production costs, and other farm business methods.

Mr. Bewick said he was not in favor of offering prizes in club contests. He claimed prize contests are being overdone, and are tending to undermine the entire program of the movement. He also said the movement is getting too much publicity. He urged businessmen, however, to support the movement by visiting meetings of clubs within the near vicinity.

Streams In Marinette-Co Offer Fine Trout Fishing

BY BERT CLAFLIN

I am prompted to write as I am doing today because of a talk I had with a bunch of anglers in Milwaukee a couple of days ago. They were enthusiastic rod and reel experts, but they have met with poor success in trout fishing during the last two or three years.

They asked me to state plainly just what I thought of their chances for getting a catch of trout on the opening day, which is now only four weeks away. They wanted to know where I intended going, what baits or lures I shall use and many other things that might be helpful to them.

I told them that, first of all, they knew as well as I did that our brook trout are getting very scarce. There is no use camouflaging the situation, and there is no use holding up for argument the fact that the conservation commission is planting many young fish every year. The trout are getting extremely scarce, and that is all there is about it. There is apparently something wrong with the methods in force in planting the small fish, even though they are retained in captivity until they have attained quite some size.

As for planting fry that is a waste of time and money. It never was effective and never will be. I believe the chief reason for the increasing scarcity of trout is the growing army of anglers, who now get to every good spot on every stream and every day during the season. It is easy to understand that the trout cannot survive the onslaughts made on their ranks, particularly considering the ineffective attempts that are made at suppression of our streams.

However, to get back to what I stated for the benefit of the fellows in Milwaukee who sought some honest help on the opening day—I told them how, last year, I suggested to two other fishermen who approached me for information, that they try the Hunting River fowage, east of Antigo. They returned with 30 trout, the smallest of which measured a foot in length.

I told them, as I say to you now, that was a very unusual catch. They just happened to hit conditions

MILK PRODUCERS TO HEAR J. D. BECK

Agricultural Commissioner Will Speak Here Saturday Afternoon

Another meeting of milk producers who send their product to Appleton will be held at 1:30 Saturday afternoon at the circuit court room in the court house, according to Gustav E. Sell, county agent.

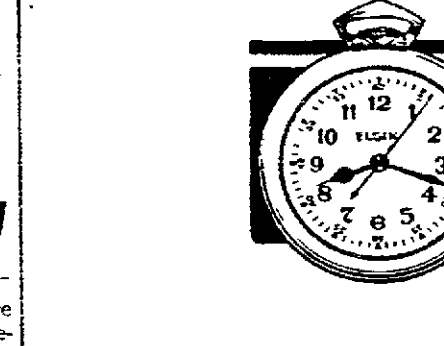

J. D. Beck, one of the state agricultural commissioners, will be the principal speaker.

It is intended to organize a local producers' association or join a state group. A local committee is arranging details.

Last December the producers met here and formed a committee organization to consider various organization plans. A local independent plan was voted down by members and affiliation with the Wisconsin Pure Milk Cooperative was dropped when the group was unable to secure enough members.

Yes Sir, He's Her Baby

Oakland, Calif., police authorities were convinced for a time that Harlan Oyer, shown in the arms of his mother, Mrs. Grace Oyer, was Edly Gaffney, kidnapped 10 years ago in Brooklyn. They watched the Oyer home for days. But Mrs. Oyer produced birth records and baby pictures which proved Egan to be her own boy. Inset shows the Gaffney baby at the time of the kidnapping.

The contest, under the supervision of Miss Mary Carner, will begin at 8 o'clock, April 6, in the high school auditorium. The judges have not been selected as yet.

The entrants included Vernon Beckman, Hubert Boldt, Simon Cherkasky, William Chopin, Chester Dorschner, Harold Gramse, Charles Herzog, Harvey Kahler, William Hegner, Steward Elmer, William Zuehlke, John Younger, Simon Sigman, Gordon Watts, Wilmer Stach, Howard Rietz, Jacob Schirrat, Isadore Zussman, John Koffand, Curtis Renner, James Morrow, Robert Meyer, Gerald Hoffman and Wesley Schroeder.

WEALTHY WOULD DODGE DEBTS, BLAINE CHARGES

Port Washington, (AP) — Senator John J. Blaine, Progressive candidate for delegate to the Republican National convention charged in a campaign speech here today that Americans made wealthy by war profits are now trying to escape a just share of taxation to pay off the government's war debt.

"To invite the attention of the Staircase Hoover candidates for delegates to the fact that the government of the United States is in debt about 18 billions of dollars and that substantially all of that debt was incurred during the war," he said, "I invite their attention to the fact that during the war there were added to the millions then in existence many thousands of other millionaires. Those gentlemen who were making their vast fortunes out of the sacrifice of the lives of American boys and out of the sacrifices of the American people."

"Now these same gentlemen are endeavoring to escape their just share of the taxes necessary to discharge that war debt. That it has been for the war, were it not for the war debt there would be no debt in the federal treasury."

CHICAGO BUILDING LAST STRUCTURES FOR EXPOSITION

Chicago — (AP) — Chicago is rolling up her sleeves and making ready to set to work earnestly within two weeks on the halls of the 1933 Century of Progress exposition.

Five million dollars and 2,500 skilled men will be the agents for speeding the transformation of the open stretches of the boulevard studded Lake Michigan front into a city of bizarre architecture before another winter comes.

Thirteen buildings—the last of the major units and several special structures—are to be added to the few already standing and the signal for the opening of the huge construction program will be the drop of a steam hammer driving the first pile of a bridge over an artificial lagoon.

Among the 13 will be five pavilions to show the record of man's progress in the minerals industries, graphic arts, industrial arts and crafts and furniture construction. Others will house automotive, agricultural, state and federal exhibits.

For three years he was superintendent of filtration at Highland Park, Mich., and for a year and a half he was in charge of sales promotion for the General Chemical company of Chicago. In 1929 and 1931 he was chief chemist in the water plant of Springfield, Ill.

The new superintendent took his bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering from the University of Iowa in 1929 and his Ph. D. in the chemistry of water, sewage and sanitation from the University of Illinois in 1931. He is a brother to Dr. D. M. Gallaher of this city.

TESTIMONY IS CONTINUED IN ESTATE HEARING

John H. Neller, Secretary of Trustees, Resumes Stand Today

Methods of conducting the estate of George F. Peabody, former Appleton merchant and the system of bookkeeping and basis on which reports were made to the county court of Outagamie-co were described Wednesday and Thursday by John H. Neller, secretary of the board of trustees in county court.

Mr. Neller, was the only witness on the stand up to noon today. Judge D. E. McDonald, Oshkosh, of Winnebago-co court is hearing the case.

The suit was started by Lawrence college, the Y. M. C. A., the City of Appleton, and the board of education to oust trustees of the estate, and disallow reports for the year 1929 and 1930. Trustees are Mr. Neller, John H. Coulter and Alfred W. Hoyt, the latter two of Chicago.

Wednesday it was revealed that the salary of the three trustees was $2,000 each during recent years and that the estate had made a little more than $13,000 in 1929. The revelation was made by Mr. Neller under questioning by plaintiff attorneys.

Asks About Salaries
Judge McDonald asked the trustees to determine on what basis they fixed their salaries and to be ready to tell the court Thursday. Up to noon Thursday the angle of salaries for trustees had not been brought up again.

Various reports submitted by the trustees to the county court for Outagamie-co were reviewed Thursday by attorneys for the plaintiffs and Mr. Neller was asked to explain methods of arriving at conclusions. Part of the bond investment securities the estate holds also were discussed.

On Thursday morning Mr. Neller continued his interpretation of reports. Stock contracts between former employers of the Peabody-Peabody company for company stock were introduced into testimony. The will of George F. Peabody, who employed a pension system mentioned in the will of Mr. Peabody.

APPLETON TRUCK DRIVER DENIES ASSAULT CHARGE

Harvey Wallace Lodged in Brown-co Jail in Default of $1,000 Bond

Harvey Wallace, 1711 N. Mead-st, truck driver for the Spilker Bakery, who was arrested here yesterday afternoon by Officers Matthew McGinnis and Albert Delgen for Brown-co authorities, was arraigned in municipal court at Green Bay this morning before Judge N. J. Monahan on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm. He pleaded not guilty and will appear for trial Friday. Unable to furnish $1,000 bond, he was lodged in Brown-co jail.

Brown-co authorities yesterday morning started a vigorous search to learn the identity of two men who Tuesday night are alleged to have deliberately run down Henry McCabe, Snyderville filling station proprietor, with their automobile after beating up Everett Brown, Lawrence, a friend of McCabe.

According to information received here, Wallace was accompanied by Robert Hoh, Appleton, at the time the alleged assault took place. Hoh may be taken to Green Bay for questioning, officials intimated.

The water plant took his bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering from the University of Iowa in 1929 and his Ph. D. in the chemistry of water, sewage and sanitation from the University of Illinois in 1931. He is a brother to Dr. D. M. Gallaher of this city.

TEDDY ROOSEVELT HAS NEW NICKNAME AFTER GAME HUNT

Manila, P. I. — (AP) — Governor General Theodore Roosevelt came back to Manila today from a nine day tour of northern Luzon island with a new nickname, reminiscent of his famous father's reputation as a big game hunter.

The governor was dubbed "One Shot Teddy" by members of his party when he killed a wild carabao (a water buffalo noted for its viciousness when aroused) with a single shot from 150 yards.

The trip was made primarily to study social and economic conditions, as part of the new governor's plan to obtain first hand knowledge of all sections of the islands. But it also included two days of hunting.

The governor's party, including his favorite daughter, Grace, was endangered when transferred at midnight on the open sea near Apo from an inter-island steamer to the yacht Apo on the final stage of the trip.

Governor Roosevelt visited eight provinces on this tour and plans to visit scores of others before the territorial legislature convenes in July.

13 Injured When Train Is Derailed

Several Cars of Speeding Passenger Train Hurled Off Tracks

Holdegre, Neb. — (AP) — Several cars of the Burlington road's speeding passenger train, the Aristocrat, left the rails a half mile west of Axtell, Neb., at 6 o'clock a. m. today, injuring at least thirteen persons, several seriously.

Trainmen blamed a broken rail for the accident. The train, No. 9, was bound for Denver and was traveling about 35 miles an hour. It was run by a locomotive and two baggage cars remained on the rails.

Two Pullmans, a baggage car and the diner also left the tracks. The trucks were pulled from under the diner.

Physicians from Axtell and Holdegre rushed to the wreck to treat the injured, most of whom were taken to Holdegre. They were treated for cuts, bruises and shock.

Two persons were taken to Brewster hospital at Holdegre. They are Miss Mary Kiewitz of Milwaukee, who suffered severe head injuries, and injuries to a rib and C. L. Hewitt of Grand Junction, Colo., who suffered a fractured shoulder and head injuries.

Dan Kirk Nelson, 3-month-old son of Mrs. Harold Nelson of Selma, Iowa, suffered cuts on the top of his head. With his mother and aunt, Miss Esther Nelson, he was enroute to Pasadena, Calif., to visit his father. Mrs. Nelson and Miss Nelson were bruised and shaken, but their injuries were not serious.

Mrs. A. B. Ewell and her seven-year-old daughter, Barbara Lou of Santa Barbara, Calif., also were injured seriously. Another daughter, Dorothy Ann, 11, was hurt slightly. Barbara Lou suffered a deep gash on top of her head and Mrs. Ewell's back and shoulders were injured.

Miss Christina Steff of Orleans, Neb., suffered injuries to her spine and shoulders.

A dining car waiter, E. Rise, was injured seriously. He was the only railroad employe hurt in the accident.

The locomotive and two baggage cars continued into Holdegre this morning when arrangements were made to make up a train and continue west with the passengers.

The four cars which left the rails and did not turn over plowed into a wheat field 20 feet from the tracks. A wrecker was enroute here from McCook to repair the tracks and place the cars back on the rails. Railway officials said the track may not be in service again before midnight.

TRADE ISSUES ARE GREATEST, GOVERNOR SAYS

LaFollette Declares They Transcend Question of Return of Beer

Milwaukee — (AP) — Gov. Philip LaFollette declared in an address in the Deutsches Haus here last night that he is personally opposed to prohibition, but that economic issues transcend the issue over the return of beer.

"Personally," Governor LaFollette said, "I am not in favor of prohibition and I never have been, but I would rather support a dry like Senator Norris of Nebraska, than wets like Sen. Ben Gummel of Milwaukee, and Congressman John C. Schafer of Milwaukee, who talk wet and support Hoover."

"However," he continued, "the basic economic issues transcend the questions of beer or no beer. The experiment of concentrated liquor control in the government has been tried for 14 years and it has brought lack of respect for the government."

"It is now clear and manifest that the control of the liquor problem should be returned to the states. We Progressives do not take a bigoted and narrow view."

Answer to Question
The governor's statement was in answer to the question, "how about Norris?", which was shouted at John J. Doerfler, Progressive delegate candidate, who preceded the governor on the platform. Doerfler ignored the question, but Governor LaFollette answered it at the beginning of his talk.

"Somebody has asked, 'what about Norris?'," the governor said. "I'll tell you about him. Senator Norris, year in and year out, stood by Senator LaFollette when the super-prohibitionists were running high and handsome. Norris had courage and strength and was broadminded enough to do what he did."

Referring to the recent special session of the legislature, Governor LaFollette said the newspapers were wrong when they said the unemployment relief measure would raise $1,900,000. He said it would have provided about $249,000, based on ability to tax.

The sales tax, the governor said, would have fallen on "every unemployed workman who sent to a bakery to buy a loaf of bread for his hungry family."

"If Herbert Hoover came into this hall, or I met him on the street, I would take off my hat to the office of the president of the United States. I'm opposed to the policies and not to the individual. A lot of people believe that. I believe that when a man puts himself in the position of leadership, he must take the bricks with the bouquets," Governor LaFollette said.

CHICAGO HOLDS MAN WANTED BY SHERIFF

Sheriff John Lappen has returned from Chicago where he went to get Jerry Worth, alias Chester Krause, wanted in Outagamie-co on a charge of having stolen property in his possession. Worth still is in Chicago, however, until Chicago police consider a charge of burglary they have against him.

Worth was arrested in Chicago with another man charged with burglary in the night time. If Chicago police can't get a conviction on their charge they will turn Worth over to Outagamie-co, Sheriff Lappen said.

ESKIMO TRADER'S DOGS TRIUMPH IN CHAMPIONSHIP RACE

Nome, Alaska — (AP) — Kigatelluk, an Eskimo trader, takes his dog racing seriously. As a result, the all-Alaska championship has moved to Shishmareff, a settlement in the farthest northwest point of the American continent.

The tea mot 11 huskies Kigatelluk trained throughout the winter with seal and walrus meat and exhaustive runs in all kinds of weather scampers to victory yesterday in the annual race from here to Golovin and return.

The dogs whirled over the frozen course in 15 hours, 13 minutes and 11 seconds.

They appeared to be the only team of the 14 in the race to finish fresh. Four dropped out on the grueling return run.

Kigatelluk, who owns a small trading post at Shishmareff, drove the team for his father-in-law, Willem Alukuk, wealthy reindeer owner. They celebrated with an Eskimo dance.

Fred Topkok, native driver, finished second with an elapsed time of 15 hours, 47 minutes and 37 seconds.

Al Carey, white defending champion, drove his 13 dogs over the course in 15 hours, 58 minutes and 34 seconds for third place.

KEEP ON ADVERTISING, CHICAGO BANKER ASKS

Chicago — (AP) — Melvin A. Straus, vice president of the Straus National bank, recommends keeping up advertising appropriations in newspapers as the best means of stimulating buying.

He said last night his bank would urge its patron firms to maintain normal advertising expenditures because hoarding of advertising money "is one of the most disturbing factors in business today."

"If business lacks confidence in itself, how can the public be expected to have any?" he inquired. "What business needs is self-confidence and public confidence, and advertising by the printed word can bring it."

During 1931 more than 100 national advertisers who increased their advertising gained in sales and profits, he said.

FINANCIAL HISTORY IS BEING WRITTEN BY POUND STERLING

Wave of Speculation Behind Movement on Foreign Exchange Markets

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer
New York.—(P)—An extraordinary series, "The Adventures of the Pound Sterling," is running through the financial news columns these days.
A denouncement is not yet in sight. Efforts are being made to foresee it, but so far, despite the swiftly moving instalments, the climax is obscure.
Back of sterling's newly found strength, foreign exchange dealers point out, is undoubtedly a wave of speculation which British authorities have sought in the recent past to check. Inasmuch as speculators have, or think they have, good reasons for a given course of action, much gossip and conjecture are going the rounds as to what this rise in British currency signifies. Much of the talk is already familiar. Great Britain, for example, has adjusted her budget. She is entering the season when her balances are normally favorable to her exchange. Foreign trade is beginning to look her way.
She has escaped the serious inflation which many feared would follow abandonment of the gold basis last September. She has virtually repaid the huge credits obtained in

STUDY RELIEF FOR SNOWBOUND REGION

Washington.—(P)—Ways of getting relief into snowbound Silverton, Colo., are being investigated by the Interstate Commerce commission at the request of Senator Costigan (D., Colo.) Silverton, with a population of about 1,500, has been snowbound since Feb. 1 or 2, with food now being brought in by pack train.
France and United States for the support of the pound.
But some bankers point out that the situation requires a broader interpretation. Great Britain, it is suggested in these circles, may well be reassessing—even though unin-tionally—her position of world financial leadership from which the pound sterling promptly deposed her late in September, 1931, with the lapse from gold.
Consideration is also being given to international political aspects of the story as it now seems to be taking form. It is suggested that in England which was showing marked recovery from depression would be most strategically situated to impress on other countries her attitude toward world problems, notably reparations. With the Lausanne conference set for June, there is a disposition in Wall-st to view her financial improvement in the light of how strongly placed she might find herself at that important meeting of the nations and to what extent and in what directions she might make her influence felt.

TRY FOR REVISION OF INSTALLMENT ON INCOME TAXES

60 Per Cent of Taxes May Be Paid Next Year in March and June
BY WILLIAM LEE
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press
Washington.—(CPA)—It now appears to be a possibility that income taxpayers of the country may be called upon in March and June, 1933 to pay a total of 60 per cent of their taxes on 1932 incomes, instead of the usual 50 per cent.
As a result of the turmoil in the house over the revenue legislation, serious consideration is being given by the treasury to a proposal to ask congress for revision of the installments next year so that the March and June installments each may be 30 per cent of the total instead of the 25 per cent now operative.
Since the house has defeated the sale tax plan, the treasury is in just as much of a quandary as to how it will accomplish a balanced budget as is the ways and means committee.
Its worries are directed to the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1932, and that is why there is much calculation going on at the treasury over the probable results of a changed installment basis.
Billion Extra Needed
The treasury cannot evade the conclusion that increases in income taxes will yield nothing until March 15, 1933, when the returns for the calendar year of 1932 are filed. It is considered, therefore, that by increasing the percentage of the March and June installments, both of which fall within the fiscal year starting next July 1, extra money may be brought in to make up revenues which it was hoped to collect in the current calendar year in the form of a sales tax.

There is need of something over a billion dollars in added revenue for the 12 months beginning July 1, 1932, if anything like a balanced budget is to result. House leaders, still distraught over the action on the sales tax, are going over every possible source of tax.
The treasury recognizes now, according to more or less official admissions, that the senate will have to do a lot of reworking in the revenue legislation. In the meantime, further thought can be given to the possibilities of shifting the amounts of income tax payments before it is too late to present the plan to the senate. Superficially, certainly, there is every ground for belief that the senate will be asked to include the change in the installment basis, just as the British government did on one or two occasions to effect a balanced budget.

Maybe Public Isn't So Sold On Talkies After All

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press
Hollywood.—(CPA)—Producers are beginning to think maybe the public isn't so fickle after all nor so absolutely sold on talkies as opposed to good acting and an interesting plot. The best day's business ever done at a certain local movie house was done on the day when "The Kiss" with Greta Garbo, was recently revived. The second best day's business was done on the more recent day when "Molly O"—a silent feature—was revived there after 12 years of oblivion.
"The Kiss" was among the early talkies and none too good from the sound track point of view. "Molly O" with not a sound in the entire eight reels is the picture with Mabel Normand in the lead on which Mack Sennett clanked up two and a half million dollars a dozen years back.
For some mysterious reason the Garbo early talkie went back into ard Jones, the director, and Ray Gray, his assistant, as well as two of the actors who had small character parts.

"It would be foolish to stop making new pictures of course," Mack Sennett commented, "but the rather unexpected success of 'Molly O' just now is illuminating. A woman, leaving the theatre, was overheard saying to her friend: 'Isn't it a relief to see a picture without all that talkie gabble?'"

STATE NEARLY BROKE
Pierre, S. D.—(P)—Estimating

ment will have virtually no cash left after paying its bills next Oct. 1,
State Auditor William Dunn today issued a statement urging all state departments to "curtail expenditures to a minimum."

Bothered With Eczema. Complexion Terrible. Healed by Cuticura.

"I had been bothered with eczema since a small child, on different parts of my face and scalp, and even in my eyebrows. My face would break out in small, watery blisters and later turn scaly and red, causing me added annoyance of itching and burning. My hair fell out and became dry, and I was ashamed to be seen because my complexion was terrible.
"I sent for free samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped so much that I purchased more, and in about four weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Nellie Bentley, 1603 S. Garkey St.,

Let these NEW LOW PRICES answer the question:

"What's the best tire to buy today" ?

The best tire, without regard to price, is a Goodyear.
Don't take our word for it. Take the public's. The public says Goodyears are best—by a lead of more than 2 to 1 over any other tire.
And when you read these prices, you find that the best costs no more to buy.
Every price shown here buys Goodyear quality—
Goodyear value—in a tire branded with the Goodyear name and house flag.
Now you can get ready for spring and summer driving by getting rid of tire troubles. No one can afford to risk skids, delays or blowouts—no one needs to use tires that have run past the danger point—when new rubber sells at such prices as you see here.
Look them over and ask yourself this easy question:
"Why be satisfied with a second-choice tire when first-choice costs no more!"

DEBTS AND TAXES

One of the best and clearest articles upon the present condition of the public finances, the subject that properly engrosses the attention of the nation, appeared in the March 26th issue of the Saturday Evening Post from the pen of former President Coolidge. Written in the calm manner that always marked the tone of Mr. Coolidge's state papers it provides serious food, in plentiful measure, to think about.

The Post-Crescent is not so much interested in attempting to locate the fault or place the blame for the condition that confronts the country, whether upon political leaders or political parties, business interests or others, as it is, first of all, to get into the people's mind as accurate a picture as possible of the true conditions in the country, for the people must decide whether to follow a certain course or not, a decision impossible to make with decent accuracy without the facts.

The total cost of all government in this country, national, state and local, in the year 1913 was a little under 3 billions. By 1923 this figure had risen to nearly 10 billions, nor was this enormous increase attributable largely to the war. Most of it in fact was in the upkeep of local government.

The next six years tell a story charged with dark threats for our future, for this 10 billions shot up to over 13 billions, and 99 per cent of this increase was due to state and local governments.

Mr. Coolidge points out that "from 1919 to 1929 the national debt was reduced from 26½ billions to 17 billions," at least one-half of which reduction was paid from income and inheritance taxes.

Let us blunder by blaming the war for our woes it is significant that the cost per person of all our government rose "from $30.24 to $107.37 in 16 years, during the last six years of which, the national per capita expenditure was reduced $2.47."

But there are even more threatening aspects to the picture. Examine into the question of debts, for the interest that must be paid annually has risen with ominous leaps and bounds. In 1922, says Mr. Coolidge, the grand total of all moneys owned by federal, state and local governments was slightly over 30 billions. From 1922 to 1928 the national debt had been decreased 5½ billions but the state and local debt had increased just about that amount.

Although writing impersonally, Mr. Coolidge depicts the common conception when he tells about the voracious appetite of public bodies for spending:

"As interest was reduced and savings made in one quarter, new expenses were incurred in other quarters. The appetite of congress for spending and of special interests for receiving was insatiable. The President was often compelled to approve expenses he did not think wise and see bills calling for huge outlays passed over his veto. . . . The war example became infectious. If great sums could be borrowed and great revenues raised at Washington the thought evidently was that the same thing could be done at home."

It took the depression to get us to stop long enough in our tracks to view the sort of structure we were building. We have at least one remaining asset of priceless value. It is the public credit. "When public credit fails, private credit is seriously affected, banks begin to close and general liquidation follows."

Mr. Coolidge's article serves also the useful purpose of pointing out the vast gulf between money and wealth, the danger of confusing the terms, and shows how most of our wealth cannot be used to pay taxes, in fact that as soon as you begin to confiscate wealth you destroy entirely its quality as wealth.

Supposing a widow is left a farm appraised at $10,000 and had to pay an inheritance tax of half that amount, where would she get the money? Unfortunately she will discover that the tax collector won't take half of the farm although she might be glad to give it to him. Tax collectors must have money and just as soon as you compel the liquidation of wealth faster than the markets can buy, crash go the markets and crash goes wealth.

The blame, says the ex-President, belongs with the people:

"If the same people who have lately been hastening down to Washington to protest that they cannot pay any more taxes had been half as diligent when congress was passing bills calling for billions of expense, they would not be in such distress. They then sat sulkily at home leaving the public treasury and presidential vetoes to be overrun by a wave of extravagance. . . . And yet the national credit is our last resort; it must not be permitted to be impaired whatever the cost of maintaining it."

Mr. Coolidge says that farm taxes since 1914 have increased 2½ times and that "the average tax for the six years from 1922 to 1927, inclusive, for the farmer" was 23 1-3 per cent of the net income. He then shows how pounding the farmer for additional taxes makes him pound his acres for additional crops until he has secured a surplus which is smothering himself.

Few men in politics have overlooked the distress of the farmer but few of them have referred to the similar plight of the railroads, for in their best years the railroads were actually paying about 25 per cent of their net income for taxes. And most of us cheered at legislation aimed against the railroads, forgetful that "about 68 million of our inhabitants, by reason of investments in securities, deposits in saving institutions and ownership of insurance policies, have a financial interest in railroads."

At the present time we see many people protesting vigorously against the small direct sales tax, apparently oblivious to the terrible drain indirectly imposed upon them when they became parties to a system that has gaily and joyously wasted hundreds of millions upon the delusion that "somebody else is paying for it."

"The only permanent remedy, the only relief for high taxes, is a reduction of public expenditures," concludes Mr. Coolidge. The governments have been borrowing and spending beyond the capacity of the people to pay.

The people really didn't realize this incapacity until the froth of prosperity was wiped away. They believed all of the wealth of the country was stationary, could be coined into money at a moment's notice and forgot the fact that wealth goes up and down in direct proportion to its ability to earn an income, that its value is determined largely by the desire of others to have it, a desire that is removed when it cannot produce earnings.

It will be a painful operation, this coming down to earth and realizing some of the fundamentals of life, but unless it is accomplished, "the suffering and want that will result are beyond estimation."

Indeed the ex-President recommends a new combination in this country, "a combination, on a non-partisan basis, of wage earners and business men for their mutual protection. They need to be organized, alert and vocal. Then the congress and other bodies will listen because they will feel they have some support in resisting further expenditures and some encouragement in pursuing a policy of retrenchment."

Taxation creates a vicious circle. Soaking the railroads has resulted in soaking the farmers and workers. There is only one proper soaking program and that is to soak the spenders.

A SHEBOYGAN COP

An immense still was discovered at Sheboygan through the fact that its operators attempted to make arrangements with a policeman to insure his silence and to tip off to them any possible raid. The policeman reported the offered bribe to his chief. The chief swooped down upon the still and announced that his action "is my ultimatum to gangland that tampering with police will not be tolerated."

The inability of Crime to corrupt officers of the law at Sheboygan is a bright spot in the news. The dark thing about it is its rarity.

SO THE University of Wisconsin finally landed Doc Spears to take over the thankless job of head coach at our great institution of higher learning. . . . my my . . . a month ago people might have gotten excited over the news now it's like a melodrama in which the hero forgot to come in at the right time and save the day and the villain had to keep threatening the heroine until the stage manager could find someone to go on. . . . oddly enough, as soon as the super-brains at Madison quit writing letters and using the telephone, and sent a qualified representative out to the coast to talk with Spears, he was quite ready to do business. . . . but, thank goodness, it is settled and the university can sit down and make people try to forget all that's been going on. . . . they have a big-line coach in Spears, one who gets results by the methods which brought Knute Rockne success—ruthless, driving tactics, yet holding the respect of his men. . . . if you hear a loud explosion along about April 13, that's Doc Spears meeting the University faculty. . . . they probably aren't going to get along. . . . hevin help somebody down there. . . .

Thass right. Instead of paying so much attention to the freedom of the Philippines, why doesn't Congress do something about the freedom of the United States?

There's an election next week. Goshgosh. Ballots and candidates and extra papers.

Extra papers. . . . extra papers. . . . that reminds us, we'll probably be up all night Tuesday. Tak, tak. Why do they have to have elections?

But wait until next fall. Obey Obey Obey. There WILL be sumpin'.

They did—after we wrote this.

Once in a while you read about something a doctor has done which makes you darned glad for the profession and wonder if you hadn't ought to be more prompt in paying your doctor bills. Anyway, we're thinking about the doctor down in Columbus, Ohio, who brought a baby into the world recently. The baby was born dead. The doctor used a pulmotor. He tried several sorts of respiratory methods. He worked for seven hours. The baby is alive, now.

Yes doc, we'll have a check over to you tomorrow.

Ah. . . the festivities in China have not been completely stopped yet. The reason we hadn't been hearing about the oriental party is because a peace conference had been going on. ## EXPERIENCE IN THE TREATMENT OF INFECTED TONSILS

A large factor in the tonsil problem is experience. Most physicians who deal with tonsil cases have plenty of experience, but unfortunately there have been few attempts to tabulate results and arrive at definite conclusions concerning the methods of treatment in common use.

The studies of Dr. Kaiser of Rochester, N. Y., and of Dr. Welch of Kansas City, Mo., are outstanding. The former recorded the effects of tonsillectomy in thousands of school children and compared the condition of these children with that of an equal number of other children in the same school and age groups who had not had their tonsils removed. The latter made a microscopic study of a thousand tonsils removed in dispensaries or hospital clinics by good throat surgeons and found a large share of the tonsils without evidence of disease, and a small share of them bearing bits of throat muscle.

Dr. Kaiser's studies convince any reasonable man that the benefits of tonsillectomy in children are at least questionable. Dr. Welch's studies convince any reasonable man that the standard operation for removal of tonsils, in the hands of men of good average ability, is a crude and bungling procedure.

The best throat surgeons in the country admit that in a large share of cases some tonsil tissue is overlooked and left in the throat when the standard operation is done. The present preference in the treatment of these portions of tonsil not included in the bite of the guillotine and snare is electro-coagulation—diathermy. Somehow that seems more conservative when the patient complains of trouble from the portions of tonsil left after the operation.

Conservative physicians are beginning to feel that it is sufficient to drain or destroy the nidus or focus of infection in the tonsil without necessarily attacking the normal surrounding tissue at all. They know from their own experience that the traditional tonsillectomy as done by the leading throat specialists too often fails to bring the anticipated benefits and sometimes brings disaster. They have discovered quite recently that patients suffering from focal infection in many instances show remarkable benefit from one or two sittings of treatments when diathermy is employed. This is not by any means the usual course, but it is impressive when it does happen. The explanation is that the infected area or focus is reached by the applicator at the first or second treatment, and seared or disinfected immediately.

In the past much specious argument has been heard about the importance of removing every bit of tonsil tissue in any case. This is practically impossible, by any known method. Besides, no one has offered evidence that uninfected tonsil tissue in the throat is in any way harmful.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Wheat 2 Cents a Pound
I operate a small grist mill and since you urged people to eat wheat at breakfast feed numerous customers come to the mill and buy it in small quantities at 2 cents a pound. They say they prefer it to the other so-called breakfast cereals. (Saskatoon.)

I am a farmer and we are eating our own wheat at breakfast food as you recommended. We find it very valuable. I am selling it to more and more people at 15 cents a pound, ground. My wheat is Crisp American White and we grind it by the hammer mill process. (Michigan.)

Answer—Thank you. If more people would eat more wheat undoctored and unrefined, I think there would be better health. The plain wheat, entire or cracked or ground in your own mill, gives all the desirable elements of the wheat germ and the bran in a palatable form. Chew it raw, or crack it up and cook it as you like or cook it whole in a double boiler for two or three hours.

Cramps in Legs
I want to say I have tried the remedy some one reported to you for cramps in the legs at night—pressing one's feet firmly against the foot-board of the bed. It does relieve them and enable one to get to sleep again. (D. W.)

Answer—Yes, and while you're taking that treatment it will help of you will do a few slow, even, deep belly breathing exercises.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

I didn't take the Tynies long to raise their voices, good and strong, and shout to Driver Duncy, "Now, be careful how you drive. We'll climb aboard and go with you, but you must promise you won't do a lot of crazy things. We want to end our trip alive."

"Don't worry," Duncy snapped, "I'll see that you're as safe as safe can be. This bakery wagon's not to hard to steer. I'm sure of that. And too, the baker says his bound is sure to get to where he's bound. Each one of you just jump aboard and hang on to your hat."

Then, as the whole bunch climbed inside, the friendly baker loudly cried, "Don't try to steer the dog. He knows the proper way to go. Just jerk the reins and shout giddap! Then you can drop them in your lap. The trip may last a little while, because the dog runs slow."

"When you lads have sold everything, come right back here so you can bring the money you've collected for my pies and bread and cakes. I'm going to wait right here for you. I know that nothing wrong you'll do. I'll come from the time you start and see how long it takes."

Then Duncy very loudly cried, "All ready. We're set for our ride. Giddap. Kind bounds, and take us to the little town nearby. Don't run too slow, or try to race. Just keep an even sort of pace. We do not want to spill, because we're sitting rather high."

They traveled half an hour or so and then brave Scotty shouted, "Oh, I see the little village. We are on the outskirts now. Bring on the tots who want to buy the things we've brought. Oh, me, oh my, I've sold a lot of things before, so I will shout you how." (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)

Today's Anniversary

FRENCH, BRITISH GAIN

On March 31, 1918, for the first time since the great German offensive began, counter-attacks by French and British forces were successful in taking back some of the fruits of enemy advances.

British reserves attacked strongly the new German positions near Serre and regained much lost ground.

Fresh French divisions attacked on their front and recaptured the villages of Avescouart and Monchal. Thousands of American troops were ordered to reserve positions behind the battle front and were ready to go into action in case of another major offensive action on the part of the Germans.

News of Allied success was received with great enthusiasm in both France and England, where the morale of the people had been seriously shaken by the early German victories.

One dark cloud on the horizon, however, was the rumor that German storm troops had been largely withdrawn from the first battle front and were being concentrated for a second major operation on another sector.

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — That white-haired, robust veteran of congressional wars—Henry Rainey of Illinois, democratic leader of the house—has been studying the question of taxes for the past quarter of a century.

He probably knows more about the subject than any other man in congress. In fact, he says himself that he knows all about the subject. The science of levying taxes, he says, is simple. To an harassed house trying to raise enough money to balance the budget, Rainey advised:

"The science of levying and collecting taxes, gentlemen, is merely the science of getting the most feathers with the least squawking of the goose. That is all there is to it."

Rainey at the time had taken the floor to talk straight from the shoulder to his colleagues about the tax bill—more particularly the sales tax.

A Change of Heart
No one perhaps feels more strongly about the sales tax than does Rainey. During the almost 25 years he has been in congress, he has repeatedly raised his voice in opposition to any such method of taxation.

But the necessity, he feels, in balancing the budget has caused him to have a change of heart.

Talking in moderate, almost soft tones, for more than an hour and a half Rainey put the proposition up to the house. He told them all in unmistakable language just what had to be done.

"We have got to talk plainly," he said. "If we do not balance the budget or come as near doing it as we can, we are going to have here in the United States in the immediate future, and it may occur this summer, the biggest panic any nation ever had in all the history of the world."

House Listens To Him
They listened to him. Despite the fact that he talked for more than an hour, there were few interruptions.

So impressed was the house that when he concluded, to a man they arose to their feet and cheered him.

Few can compete with him in situations like this.

There are vacant spaces in the First, Second and Third wards on which a new high school could be built so as to be near the proposed field? Then the advocates set forth that the field would be used by the young men who otherwise spend their time at road-houses. Some of us cannot reconcile this set-up but it is apparent to most citizens that there is and practically always has been a base ball field on the park grounds which is used by Appleton's Industrial league and we could throw it open to this use.

It was also proposed that the league group were willing to divide 10 per cent of the profits of their games with the park commission but most of us do not have to be politicians to know that if any group has political pull enough such proposals can slip by the wayside when once the athletic field is completed. Even so, shall we sell our privileges, and our parks for such shabby pretenses, there is no question but what we will regret it the rest of our life time.

Now is the time for the people who have convictions and those who have Appleton future as a beauty center in mind to assert themselves. Let's not be asleep to the real issue.

Willis W. Elsner.

Milk Dumping
Editor Post-Crescent—The Wisconsin Dairy union which is yet in its infancy, has already proven its ability to succeed, from the series of meetings held in different localities, in Fond du Lac and Outagamie-coos, in the past few weeks.

But as yet it is far from the goal and needs the cooperation not only the farmer, but of everyone, as it concerns all people, because if agriculture prospers, so will industries also prosper, for agriculture is the foundation of this country.

According to the latest government statistics there is in the neighborhood of 16,000,000 pounds of cheese on hand, and the production of cheese in Wisconsin is at the rate of 1,000,000 pounds daily. Now if milk was dumped for 16 days or so, there would not be any cheese on the market and thus the demand would raise the price of cheese and all other dairy products.

There will be a series of meetings held in the next few weeks in this county and I say it is the duty of all people of an agricultural state to attend these meetings and hear what the speaker has to offer.

CAPITALIZING ON OUR PARKS

Editor Post-Crescent: Our attention is called to an effort on the part of a few people to have the park commission appropriate $10,000 and convert a part of Erb park into an athletic field. We are not so much concerned about the $10,000, although we should be, but the attempt to slice off a good portion of the only park in the north part of the city seems to many of us as an affront more than anything else.

Now let us face the facts. First of all we are convinced, without reservation, that the prime motive and underlying ambition of the proponents of this athletic field is to get a place as cheap as possible, in which to hold their league baseball games; the other uses to which the field could be used are only set forth to put the idea across or in other words, to sell the idea to the public.

As was brought out Monday evening in the meeting of the Sixty Ward Voters club, the Brandt baseball players are in such a deluged condition that their further use would be dangerous. This may be true but it is also true that it would be a fine thing for those interested financially, or otherwise, to have the city of Appleton appropriate $10,000 and the necessary ground in order for them to perpetuate their enterprise.

The question before us is: Are we going to start now to slice up our parks to any commercial interest, depriving ourselves and our children of the joy and quietness which was intended when the property was bought and set aside for park purposes? Have the advocates of this athletic field given due consideration to the fact that the surrounding property and homes would be greatly depreciated in value by the presence of a steel-girded grand stand and an athletic field entirely surrounded by cyclone fences as proposed by this group to say nothing of the noise and turmoil on week days and especially on Saturdays. Athletic fields are built on the outskirts of a town just about where Appleton's old W. and I. league park was located and that of the Brandt park.

The advocates of the proposed field say that if the field is built the new high school could use it instead of using the Lawrence field. That is fine as far as it goes, but it is obvious to most of us that a new high school must be built in the near future and the question arises: are

STEADY GAINS IN EXPENSES OF GOVERNMENT

U. S. Costs Climbing More Slowly Than Those of States, Localities

(In this article, the fourth of a series on Balancing the Budget, David Lawrence deals with the expense of government in America and tells of the gradual growth of the cost of state governments and the reasons for the increase in state debts.)

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1932, By Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Of the total cost of government in America, which now amounts to about thirteen billions of dollars, the federal government in America, which now amounts to about thirteen billions of dollars, the federal government spends four billions, the states about two billions, and the cities about seven billions of dollars a year.

Back in 1899 all of the states of the Union had an annual budget of only seven millions of dollars. This jumped to one hundred and eighty-two millions in 1930, and was more than doubled a decade later, namely in 1919, when the figures stood at $382,000,000.

This has been the story every decade. For, in 1923, we find the annual budget figure at a billion two hundred and forty two million dollars for all the states and judging by the way the states have been spending money we shall, in 1933, have a state budget total of $3,000,000,000 unless the present depression brings a halt.

While there is some consolation in the fact that the federal government has since the war kept its expenditures from increasing at the same rate that state and local expenses have been going up, this does not erase the fact that the general trend in governmental expense in all divisions, federal, state and local, has been rising steadily.

It has been suggested that perhaps the increased figures do not give a true picture because the purchasing power of the dollar was down during the years of prosperity and that some comparison ought to be made with a year like 1913 when the dollar bought considerably more than it did in 1929. In terms of 1913 dollars, however, the total combined expenses for federal, state and local government would have amounted to about nine billions of dollars, instead of the twelve and a half billion spent by all three budgets in 1929. Even this amount is exactly three times the combined federal, state and local budgets of 1913.

The federal government, however, did a much better job in the last decade than did either the state or the local governments. The Washington authorities cut the federal debt from $26,000,000,000 down to $16,000,000,000 and managed to have surpluses practically every year until the end of 1929. The states and local governments during the same period increased their debts by about ten billion dollars, which curiously enough was almost exactly the amount that the federal government had cut off of its debt in the same period of time.

Examining State Budgets
Examining the state budgets, we find that about thirty-six per cent of the annual expenditures goes for highways and that education absorbs another thirty per cent. Thus, we see that seventy-six per cent of all expenses of the state governments go into two main divisions, education and highways and the remaining twenty-four per cent is divided among such items as general government, protection, special welfare, and economic development.

Social welfare takes nearly fourteen per cent, and protection is next with nine per cent. The actual cost of administration is between five and six per cent.

What these percentages mean, however, can best be understood by taking a typical budget of about two billions of dollars. About $653,000,000 is spent for highways, and about $523,000,000 for education. Social welfare costs about $240,000,000, and protection, which includes the regulatory functions of the state government, amounts to about $170,000,000. General government takes about $107,000,000, economic development about $70,000,000. Debt redemption and interest cost $140,000,000 annually and miscellaneous activities absorb the rest.

There has been a corresponding rise in the total amount of debts in the last decade. This means that the states have not been able to carry on their extensive improvements, especially for highways, on current revenues. They have had to borrow and the market for their securities has been aided by the fact that the federal government could not tax state bonds and that tax-exempt securities were popular, especially in the early days of the last decade.

The total bonded debt of the states is in the neighborhood of two billion dollars as compared to a total debt of states, as well as the debt of cities, practically doubled.

Half of Bonds for Highways
If we analyze the purposes of this debt in the states, we find that practically fifty per cent of the bonds were issued for the purpose of building highways and that the states themselves built relatively few buildings.

Less than 4 per cent of the total of the state debts went for school or college buildings. But it is significant that only 14 per cent of the debt was incurred in veteran relief and maintaining soldiers and sailors homes.

If we take the item of soldiers and sailors relief and homes, we find that approximately $2,800,000 was spent by the states in this category, which is a relatively small sum spread over the 48 states of the

Flapper Fanny Says

Union. It is obvious that the federal government with its billion a year has been bearing the principal burden for the care and relief of the veterans.

Distribution of state expenses varies, of course, with the different sections of the country. Thus, in the middle Atlantic states, the proportion of the state debt due to highways is 72 per cent, while in the south central states it is close to 70 per cent and is least expensive in New England, where it amounts to only eighteen per cent of the state debt.

Future of State Governments

Just what the future of the state governments in America is going to be depends to a large extent on the trend of the taxing power. If the states are to develop new sources of revenue, they will gradually increase their responsibilities and the tendency may be to centralize more power in the state capital especially that of coordinating local governments. This has already occurred in several states, where local units cannot borrow without making provision for a sinking fund and supervision of their finances by the state government.

There is no doubt that during the last decade the states have increased the plant—that is, they have added to capital assets, by improving roads and buildings and constructing buildings which will last many, many years and take care of all the expansion that is probable in the next decade in the way of governmental activities. In other words, these expenditures should have a tendency to decline from now on and there doubtless will be a halt to the continued borrowing. Within the next five years such a policy would mean the improvement of state credit and the gradual reduction of taxes.

What the states need is to find a way to balance their budgets and to quit borrowing. They could do this by reducing their expenditures for capital improvement and by economies in administration. Probably the largest percentage of economy will be effected in connection with state budgets where there is a complete revision of taxing systems. Some of the taxes have proved so productive that they have led to extravagance. Thus the gasoline tax, which was originally intended to pay for road building, brought in not only enough money to absorb that expense but to

THE STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

—WOMEN WHO TELL TALES—

THE girl who lost the slipper is the same girl who has been appearing in a dance act at a local theater," the physician's voice continued. "That fact is fairly well established. We received that information from Dale Courtney himself when we asked him. And we had learned . . . never mind how . . . that the slipper belonged to you. We thought that there must be a mistake."

"Sally had something to do with it, didn't she?" Ruth asked.

"Your sister was placed in a very embarrassing position," the officer of the two medical men went on. "She wanted to do her duty. Perhaps you will be interested to know that she cried several times when she volunteered her information."

"Volunteered her information?" Ruth said quickly.

"Well, she knew that we had heard that you were the girl who lost a silver slipper and somehow or other it was associated with the girl who danced. We had a rumor too, that she belonged to the school system. So we went to your home to inquire. Nothing would have happened. Your time outside of school is your own. We could not interfere. I'm not sure that we would have wanted to interfere. I saw the act . . . and it was lovely."

"Thank you," Sue said quietly. "But your sister told us that you were no longer living at home. And we learned that it was because of something else."

So that was it! Sally had explained that Ruth was involved in the Hal Pritchard affair. She knew exactly how she had wept at certain places. Mock tears that hadn't made the lace kerchief she carried even slightly moist. But the men to whom she talked would not have known that. They would have thought that Sally was sweet and lovely and devoted. That she was upholding her wayward sister. But Ruth had said nothing of this to the men. She wouldn't soil her own code of honor because Sally had. Maybe Sally won the spoils of most games by playing underhandedly. But she wouldn't follow suit. And if she had, the men would not have believed her. Dr. Raynor's eyes were sombre this morning. But when Sally's name was mentioned to him they came to life. Glowed a little. Yes, he was in love, whether Sally was or wasn't. Ruth mused in a curious, half-detached fashion with one part of her mind, while the other tried to grasp the things that she was hearing.

"You have traveled a long distance to get where you wanted to go," Ruth heard her own voice saying then. "Why didn't you ask me about this other matter at once?"

The two men flushed.

"I decided to try some other approach," the chief of the staff said. "After all, I wanted to find out about everything."

"This last story isn't true. I can deny it," Ruth said.

"Will you tell us about it, please?" the man asked, professionally, yet kindly.

Ruth looked at Joe Raynor. If she did, he would hate her. Despite her. Not believe her. It ever there should come a time when he no longer cared for Sally, his interest would not return to her. Men hated women who told tales. Sally told them . . . but he didn't know it. But if she herself tried that practice, he would know. She drew a tremulous breath.

"If I won't talk . . . am I fired?"

NEXT: Ruth's question is answered.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

IS THERE JUSTIFICATION FOR THIS DAUGHTER'S DESEKITION

Dear Virginia Vane: The problem is this: There is a family of five people, father, mother, two sons and a married daughter. The father is an invalid, unable to move hand or foot. For many years he has been in a wheel chair. The daughter and her husband live with the family and have two rooms to themselves. Then the mother dies, and the father is left to depend on his daughter for help. At this point the husband begins to make trouble. He causes so much trouble that outsiders have to come in to keep peace. Finally the husband demands that his wife leave her father entirely which she has done. The old man can't live for more than five years anyway and he has now to be cared for by a stranger. The two boys support him. Do you think the daughter has any excuse for herself? How can any father go on caring for a girl who has acted like this?

J. D.

On the face of it, it appears a cruel and heartless thing for any girl to desert her father at a time when he needs her help most. It would seem, as if she could have stayed with him for the few remaining years of his life to bring him the happiness and comfort he deserves.

But, L. D., if you're an outsider, perhaps you don't know the whole story. Perhaps the conditions are different from what you've imagined. There may be another side to the story and in all justice to the daughter, you ought to consider her angle of the affair.

If her husband was making trouble morning, noon and night, there wasn't much hope of peace and happiness for any of the family. If her husband's attitude was definitely hostile and disagreeable, perhaps the daughter may have found the situation too difficult for her to handle. She may have realized that she could bring nothing but misery to her father's last years, if she and her spouse kept up a continual warring under the parental roof. If this were so, she's far better out of the house. There can be no excuse for her whatsoever if she is refusing to contribute to the support of her father. That is her duty and one supposes that she is cognizant of it. But it seems to me that the chief blame lies with the husband. If the father realizes this he naturally continues to care for his daughter just as he did before. Don't condemn the girl too harshly unless you know for a fact that she willfully deserted her father for purely selfish reasons. That hasn't been proved yet and until it is, she might be given the benefit of the doubt.

Wait Until Daughter is Through School

PAT: You've waited this long—why not wait another two years when your daughter has finished school. Presumably she'll be ready to go to business at the time which will be of immense assistance to you when you make the break. If she can help support herself you will have that much less to worry about when it's time for you to stand on your own feet.

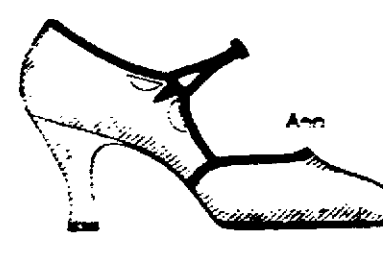

And there's another thing. While she's in school, she's very much at the mercy of her schedulers. If their opinion of her is high, she has that much easier time. You know yourself how even's age manifested during one's school days—and if your domestic tragedy became public property around town, I think your child would suffer more than you realize.

Life is unbearable for you, I'm principally because you believe that you're sacrificing yourself. But if you're steadily saving and planning for the day when you can be free and independent, you need not be as helpless and hopeless. Give yourself something to work for in the future. If you can, find work which will take you away from your home part of the day.

Don't coax an appetite—CREATE one

At last you can enjoy happy mealtimes! Ralston Wheat Cereal, now enriched with vitamin B, actually CREATES eager appetites

NO MORE coaxing—no more entertaining determined young "hunger strikers" in futile attempts to make them eat! Now you can create an eager, healthy appetite for your child in an easy natural way, even without one cent of additional expense.

You see, scientists recently discovered that the reason for listless appetites, for nervousness and irritability among so many children today is a deficiency of vitamin B—the appetite-stimulating vitamin which nature has distributed so sparingly in foods. To safeguard against that common deficiency—to make it easy for you to assure your child an adequate supply of this appetite-stimulating factor—Ralston Wheat Cereal is now enriched with two and one-half times its normal amount of vitamin B.

Think what that means! Now in each bowl of delicious Ralston Wheat Cereal you can provide your child with an abundance of the things his growing body needs—all the elements of whole wheat which are so essential to normal growth and health, and in addition—liberal quantities of vitamin B, the vitamin every child must have regularly to create or maintain a normal appetite.

Every member of your family will enjoy the wholesome flavor of this cereal which cooks in five minutes, and costs less than one cent a serving!

Your grocer has a fresh supply of the new Ralston Wheat Cereal, enriched with vitamin B. Buy one of the red and white checkerboard packages today—and treat your family to this healthful and temptingly delicious cereal for breakfast tomorrow morning

Enriched with extra Vitamin B—Creates eager appetites

Does your child's cereal pass this test? Pour into your hand a little of the wheat cereal your child eats. If it is a complete cereal it will consist of Brown particles, which provide building materials for flesh, bones and teeth; Yellow particles, rich in the vitamins which promote health and stimulate appetite; White particles, which supply warmth and energy. Over-refining or processing removes or destroys some of these health-building properties. To be sure you are getting them all, look for the brown, yellow and white particles. All three are in Ralston.

ICE BREAKING UP ON WINNEBAGO'S SURFACE

Neenah—The annual spring breakup of ice in Lake Winnebago is under way, but no exceptionally large ice piles have been deposited along the shores in this vicinity. At some distance from the shores, there are some ice piles which may average eight or 10 feet in height. They appear as mounds on the otherwise smooth surface of the lake.

There are wide stretches of open water in the lake, but there is still enough ice to make a gigantic pile-up if the wind should take an on-shore direction. There was little likelihood Thursday of any more ice piling on the west shore of the lake. The wind was from the west, and had the tendency to move the ice away from the shore, rather than toward it.

PROGRESS OF REVENUE BILL HELPS STREET

Professional Traders Easier in Mind After Washington News

BY F. H. RICHARDSON
Wall Street, New York — Wall Street was considerably easier in mind Wednesday because of the progress made by the revenue bill at Washington and the consequent assurance that treasury borrowings in the near future will not run to excessively large proportions.

Factors still remaining that could prevent United States government bonds from advancing from their present levels include the possibility that a $2,000,000,000 soldiers' bonus bill will be passed over a presidential veto. However, this is not considered a probability in the financial district and some estimate may now be made of what the treasury's needs will be.

The estimated savings as a result of budget paring is about $243,000,000,000. And $565,000,000 is expected to be raised by the new revenue bill. This leaves only $422,000,000 of the $1,241,000,000 deficit to be taken care of by borrowing.

It is possible that the treasury will be able to bridge the gap between expenditures and income with a loan of only $500,000,000. Such an amount could very likely be secured by the sale of 2-1/2 per cent notes carrying a 3 to 3 1/2 per cent coupon. The last issue of 80-day bills was subscribed about 3 1/2 times at a 2.05 per cent yield basis, indicating that the banking demand for such paper is still of sizeable proportions.

Maturities In June

There are no important note maturities until June 15, when $324,578,509 of 2's are due. But there will be no difficulty with that amount as these are in the market. The $1,392,236,830 of liberty 3's outstanding will undoubtedly be permitted to run to maturity in 1941.

As the outlook for government bonds has been measurably improved by the turn of events at Washington, their price level was pushed higher Wednesday.

The recent advance of foreign exchanges, which resulted from sales of the dollar inspired by Europe's fears that the United States would not balance its budget, caused moderate amount of selling of government bonds, but the reaction of exchanges in response to the latest news from Washington, and the bank of England's quick action to check sterling's rapid advance, had the desired effect.

Wednesday's long term issues such as treasury 4's and 3's firmed up while short term treasury bills were bid for around a 1.90 per cent yield basis as against 2 per cent on Tuesday. The recently issued one-year 3's were bid for at nearly a point premium. And the 3's, which mature in October, were at a 1-point premium.

FARMERS TO INCREASE GRAIN CROP ACREAGE

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin farmers will increase the acreages for grain and feed crops and cut the acreages for the cash crops this year, Walter Ebling, statistician for the U. S. and Wisconsin departments of agriculture said today.

The shift from cash crops to feed crops is due, partly to the small amount of feed supplies in the state the result of poor crops last year and a large livestock population at the present time.

The corn acreage is expected to increase about three per cent or 60,000 acres while the oats acreage is expected to increase two per cent or 51,000 acres. The barley acreage will be increased about seven per cent or 30,000 acres. Farmers will cut the hay acreage this year, about 100,000 fewer acres to be planted with tame hay.

Growers show an intention to cut the tobacco acreage 15 per cent which will reduce the state's tobacco area by about 6,000 acres. Potatoes, Wisconsin's leading cash crop, will probably be cut two per cent, or about 5,000 acres less than last year, Mr. Ebling said.

Early reports from leading canners indicate a decrease of 22 per cent in the canning pea acreage as compared with that planted a year ago. Much of the pea acreage was destroyed by the drought. Dry beans will probably be decreased about 10 per cent in Wisconsin while no reduction or increase is looked for in the flax production. Soy beans which are being grown largely as an emergency hay crop will show a large increase because of the shortage of hay as a result of the 1931 drought. The estimated increase of the state in soy beans is 75 per cent of last year's plantings.

SEEK VOLUNTARY SYSTEM TO GRADE EGGS IN STATE

Department Believes Farmers Will Then Get Higher Prices

Madison—(P)—Having descended at the request of the legislature the recent compulsory regulations for the grading of Wisconsin eggs, the state department of agriculture and markets is now seeking to bring about a voluntary system of egg grading in the belief that Wisconsin farmers will obtain much higher prices for their products.

In a bulletin issued this week the department said that the farmers of this state could have added $5,000,000 a year to their income from eggs if they had supported the original grading regulations.

As an example it pointed out that eggs produced on the Pacific coast where grading has been enforced for a number of years sell for as much as 20 cents a dozen more on the New York market than Wisconsin eggs.

There was considerable misunderstanding on the part of farmers about the original Wisconsin regulations, the department believes. A number of meetings are held during which protests and complaints were discussed and finally, at the special session of the legislature, a resolution was adopted, asking the department to rescind its order. It complied.

A new set of regulations is to be issued soon. Charles L. Hill, chairman of the department, said. Farmers will not have to grade their eggs if they do not want to, nor sell them as ungraded, but the voluntary descriptions will be available if they and the dealers wish to sell and buy graded products, Mr. Hill said.

"I believe the farmers will take to the voluntary system and realize the benefits that will accrue to them," he stated. "The effect may be such that the next legislature will want to require grading."

The department has prepared the following description of grades:

A new system of nominating students to class and representative offices was discussed Tuesday evening by the Lawrence college student senate, and it was decided to submit the plan to a student vote.

The nominating committee ticket will be posted at least 48 hours before the elections, and nominations will be allowed from the floor at the caucuses. The student body will vote on the new plan next Monday.

BRUENING WON'T GO TO LONDON CONCLAVE

Berlin—(P)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening advised Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain Wednesday that he would not go to London for the proposed four-power conference, but that he had delegated Undersecretary Bernhard von Buelow to take his place.

The decision of Premier Andre Tardieu of France to see the prime minister before the conference and then return to Paris without awaiting its opening caused both Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy to decide their presence at London was not necessary, a foreign office spokesman said.

DE VALERA FACES OLD PROBLEM IN UNION PROGRAM

New Irish President Revives Issue That Goes Back to Medieval Days

Eamon de Valera, New Irish President, is tackling a century-old problem in that portion of his program which calls for union of the six northern counties with the Irish Free State.

It dates from the days when Kings of Connaught, Munster and other divisions tried to unite the Green Isle by grabbing each other's possessions. It runs through the medieval politics which gave to Henry VIII and his successors the title of "King of Ireland" and takes in the Constitution of 1792 which granted to Irishmen the right to be bound only by their own laws and courts.

Yet eight years later the country rather gladly reunited with England, and one of the chief factors in that situation was the "Ulster Freeholders" who objected more strenuously to being governed by Englishmen than they did by Englishmen.

Their attitude, now that they have had ten years of autonomous government with a Parliament of their own at Belfast, and Viscount Craigavon as prime minister, has shown little change from what they thought about the subject 132 years ago.

In fact it was only twenty years ago that Sir Edward Carson and his "Ulster Volunteers" gave concrete evidence that the spirit of 1800 was still in the Northern counties.

At that time the British House of Commons had just passed Lord Ashurst's home rule bill. True, the House of Lords rejected it, but the power of the latter had been clipped, and two more favorable votes in Commons at succeeding sessions would put the bill on the statute books.

The Carson following armed itself and announced it would set up a separate government in Belfast if the bill became law. It went through the Commons again in May, 1914; the Lords excluded Northern Ireland from its provisions. Conference were in full swing when an Austrian arch-duke was murdered at Sarajevo in Serbian and all Europe sprang to arms.

Nevertheless the bill passed Commons the third time in September, 1914, and became law for all Ireland, but was amended so that it would not come into effect until after the great war. Actually it was never put in operation.

The "Ulster Volunteers" aroused the South of Ireland, where "Irish Army" were organized. England began to talk about applying its conscription laws to Ireland and Sinn Féin which is "for-us-alone" dogma gained much ground.

The bloody Easter rebellion of 1916 lasted a week to be succeeded by organization of the first Dail. But this national assembly moved too slowly for Daniel Breen, and he decided that the best way to get the English out was to kill off the constabulary.

Hence from January, 1919, until May, 1921, there was terror. It took 8,500 armed men from England, called because of the color of their uniforms "Black and Tans" to overcome the terrorists with terror in the South while shocking religious murders became the rule in Belfast and the North.

Finally British public opinion forced the Lloyd George post-war cabinet to treat with the Dail, then headed by de Valera. Out of this grew the Anglo-Irish treaty of December, 1921.

De Valera didn't like it because it established the Irish Free State as a dominion of the British Empire instead of an independent republic but the Dail accepted it.

The pact gave Ulster the right to vote itself out of the new dominion, which is promptly proceeded to do. Another point which irked de Valera.

Since then Ireland has had two Parliaments and the six northern counties have continued to send their representatives to London, to pay taxes to imperial tax collectors and

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

NOT A NOTRUMPER

The value of a hand at Contract depends on two features—on honor-tricks and on distribution. Unless one has high cards—Aces, Kings and Queens—one cannot hope to do much; but long and short suits and the pattern of the hand, generally, are hardly less important.

There is one type of hand that will play best at a suit bid; another type that will play more successfully at notrump. For a notrump bid, a balanced hand is desirable. Long suits are useful when, with trump aid, one can establish them; short suits on a trump deal can be ruffed, but long suits and short suits alike may prove sad pitfalls in a notrumper.

Hand diagrams showing card distributions for various deals.

Hand 1: ♠ 10 8 4, ♥ K Q J, ♦ J 10 3, ♣ 10 8 7 4

Hand 2: ♠ K 6 3, ♥ A 5 4, ♦ Q 8 7 5 4, ♣ A 5 3 3 3

Mr. Lupin (South) and Miss Peypis (North) were matched against Admiral Penge and Mr. Hake. The score was love-all in a Rubber game.

Mr. Hake, sitting East, dealt and passed. Mr. Lupin bid one club. Pass from the Admiral. One diamond from Miss Peypis. Her hand is a poor one, but with 14 honor-tricks, a bid-dable diamond suit and a void in clubs, she is bound to take out her partner's Opening bid.

Mr. Lupin now bid one spade (East-West never entering the arena), and Miss Peypis, after some thought, bid one notrump. She argued that she had already shown her diamonds, and was drawing attention now to her Ace of hearts. But the bid is a bad one—Miss Peypis has a bare—very bare—honor-trick minimum. She has bid her hand once already and after that should hold her peace. Any second bid is misleading.

Mr. Lupin, not satisfied with the two bids he had already made, now raised his partner to two notrump. This thoroughly scared Miss Peypis. Realizing, too late, how unsuitable her hand was for notrump, she sought refuge now in three diamonds. But you cannot retreat at Contract; you can only advance. Mr. Lupin, who had already overbid his hand, was lured by his partner's seeming encouragement into

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON
STROLL UNDER SEA

William Beebe, when he wants a change of scene, puts on a bathing suit and a diver's helmet and goes down for a stroll on the bottom of the sea.

He carries with him a sort of combination bow and arrow and slingshot arrangement, and when he comes to the surface he usually has a collection of slain fish to take home and brood over. (He never seems to eat them.) In addition, he "catches some fish alive in a net and puts them in an aquarium.

He tells about this sort of thing, very delightfully, in "Nonsuch—Land of Water," just pushed by Brewer, Warren and Putnam, Inc. at $2.50. Illustrated with some striking photographs, it makes an unusually entertaining book.

Nonsuch is a tiny island in a bay at one end of Bermuda. Mr. Beebe established a marine laboratory there and spent two or three years studying the life of the adjacent sea and shore.

Just offshore there was a submerged island, where he spent hours on more or less intimate terms with the fish. He had a launch, and for diversion he would sail about in it shooting flying fish with a shotgun—marvelous sport, he assures us. He got intimate with a pet flounder in a glass tank, nearly lost his life investigating shellfish in the breakers, caught a nine-foot shark with a hook and line and learned how crabs fight after they have lost their claws.

As you can see, there is a wide variety of stuff in this book—and it's all interesting. On top of it all, Mr. Beebe has a mind that is forever being provoked to soliloquizing on the cosmos, and he can start out to describe some migrating birds and end by speculating on the mystery of life and death.

"Nonsuch" is a fine book. Don't miss it.

MACHINE MANICURE IS DEMONSTRATED AT ILLINOIS CONCLAVE

Chicago—(AP)—You can have your nails manicured by machine now.

An apparatus which shapes and files the nails with an emery wheel, treats the cuticle with an orange stick, buffs and polishes, was demonstrated yesterday at the closing session of the Illinois Hairdressers' association.

The machine age for beauty hasn't reached the stage where you drop a coin and out comes a manicure, as an operator is still required, but as somebody pointed out, this isn't so important because a fellow can't talk to or make a date with machinery anyway.

PURSE - SNATCHER STEALS KISS FROM COP IN DISGUISE

Aurora, Ill.—(AP)—Nobody can steal a kiss from Policeman Donald F. Curran and get away with it.

Having tossed aside his cigar, he garbed himself in a woman's long cloak and sauntered down one of the city's shadowed streets. On his head was a saucy new spring bonnet. From his hand swung a woman's handbag. He vowed he'd capture the man believed responsible for snatching 30 purses in 30 days or know why.

Suddenly as he passed a tree, someone leaped upon him—a huge man, so powerful that he slowly but surely began to overcome Policeman Curran.

Policeman Curran yelled for help. Then he was horror-stricken. He felt the imprint of lips upon his cheek. His disguise was so good his assailant had stolen a kiss which made him so angry he gained new strength, seized his opponent and dashed him to the ground.

When Policeman Frank Carroll, responding to the cry for help, reached the scene, Curran was sitting triumphantly upon the alleged purse snatcher's head.

The prisoner, a deaf mute, wrote his name as Lawrence Pannell, 40. He refused to give any address.

MANY NATIONS SEEK WAY TO EVEN BUDGETS

Taxes and Debts Provide Problems in All Parts of World

BY LEO J. RYAN
Associated Press Cable Editor
New York—(AP)—Nations of the world, from one end of it to the other, struggled today with a spring housecleaning of taxes and debts.

While the congress struggled in Washington to balance the 1932 budget by enacting a group of new levies, exchequers were scraped and loans launched in a dozen other countries in an effort to put the fiscal year on its feet.

Great Britain put the finishing touches to a new budget that was planned to leave a tidy surplus. Premier Tardieu of France, and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, prepared to meet on Monday to pave the way for a European conference to outline some plan of aiding the distressed nations on the Danube.

The plight of five of these countries, Austria, Hungary, Jugoslavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia, will concern the conference chiefly, although the whole range of European problems, including reparations, war debts, disarmament and tariffs, probably will be discussed.

At the other ends of the world, the new Mexican government, under Mr. Henry Pu-Yi prepared to take over for its own uses the Chinese maritime customs amounting to about $5,000,000 in Manchuria to secure funds upon which to operate the recently inaugurated federal regime.

The new constitutional government of Argentina, under President Augustin P. Justo, launched a bill today for a "patricio" fund of $500,000,000, more or less, to pay back salaries and clean up other incidental expenses. The bonds covering the loan are to bear 6 per cent.

At the same time the government announced a rigid economy campaign, including the dismissal of probably 6,000 public employees at the end of the month and a scaling down of salaries, in some cases, from 2 to 15 per cent. Some members of the house of representatives favored a cut in army and navy salaries.

At Canberra, the Australian federal government authorized the payment tomorrow of $200,000 due New York bankers from the state of New South Wales and $200,000 due bankers in London.

The Grecian government at Athens announced it would suspend sinking fund payments on Greek bonds until May 1 of the moratorium granted after the Paris suicide of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king. Stocks rallied, however, on the prospect that loans of approximately $30,000,000 arranged by the government for the Skandinaviska Kredit Aktiebolaget bank, which was involved in the Kreuger and Toll difficulties, would be approved by the Riksdag Saturday.

The national assembly approved Spain's new budget at Madrid last night. It carried obligations of $4,750,000 pesos (about $4,856,400).

The American Chamber of Commerce at Paris was fighting tooth and nail and trying to enlist the aid of the American government in opposing the French quota system of restricting imports. The French government added more restrictions in decrees published yesterday and all raised the tariff rate on fresh fruits, which chiefly affects apple shipments, from $2.40 to $3 per 100 kilograms (220 pounds).

SENIOR CLASS PICKS THREE-ACT COMEDY

"The King Passes By," three-act romantic comedy by Lee Owen Snook, will be presented as the senior class play of Appleton high school this year, according to Miss Ruth McKenna, dramatics sponsor. The class play will be given Monday night, May 8, at Lawrence Memorial chapel. Tickets for the cost of 10 characters will be held next week at the high school under Miss McKenna's direction.

MILWAUKEE-DETROIT AIR ROUTE APPROVED

Milwaukee—(AP)—Establishment of an air mail line between Milwaukee and Detroit, spanning Lake Michigan by way of Grand Rapids, Mich., has won the approval of Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, according to a report received here by the Kohler Aviation corporation.

Brown indicated in a letter to Congressman James M. Mead of New York that his attitude toward early creation of a cross lake service is favorable.

The postmaster general urged that the Milwaukee-Detroit service be made a link of a northern transcontinental mail and passenger plane line.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press
New York—For years after accepting American sovereignty, the sultan of Sulu sat around in his pajamas and played fan tan with Chinamen. Then, when Dwight W. Davis made him a Philippine senator last year, there was an astonishing transformation in the little old man. He reported for his new job, nobly dressed, with a neat little cane and his jungle moustache trimmed down to indoor specifications.

And now the news is that he and his clever niece, Princess Tarbata Kiram, vision of something like Sulu's iridescent, challenge British sovereignty over sundry little unnamed maverick islands, included in the 130 strewn around the sultan's pretty little archipelago. The princess was educated at the University of Illinois and prods Uncle Jamail to pep up his country.

When the United States acquired its first and only Mohammedan principality, in 1899, excited newspapers sent their best word painters to Sulu to get the story of the sultan and his palace. They were puzzled and disappointed to find the palace a pretty good model of a Cape Cod farm house.

However, the sultan had a few hundred wives, some dazzling jewels, gongs, bric-a-brac, silk robes, headmen and one thing or another which filled out some pretty cable yarns.

In 1905 he was enchanted by Alice Roosevelt, who visited his palace, and he wanted to marry her. As the years went by, the income tax cramped the sultan's domestic style and his wives, once nearly a thousand in number, are now only three or four. He is the last of his 300-year-old dynasty, on a throne 600 years old. Jacob Gould Schurman, negotiating the treaty of sovereignty for President McKinley, found him courteous and hospitable, "looking much like a Japanese."

The fable of the ant and the grasshopper comes into the financial news today. The International Nickel Co. has completed a $50,000,000 modernization program without borrowing a cent.

Several years ago, when the financial millennium was on, Robert Stanley, president of the above company, was a voice crying in the wilderness. "The maintenance of property depends on silk discipline in good times," was his insistent and repeated declaration. Mr. Stanley is a technically trained executive who has sunk his entire career into one company. A graduate of the Columbia School of Mines, he was employed by the International Nickel Co. in 1901. He became its superintendent in 1914 and its president in 1922. He is the holder of two patents for metal refining.

His company has not been enmeshed in interlocking directorates and, under his direction, a policy of limiting and controlling output to probable consumption has been rigidly maintained. This department confers on him its nickel-plated medal for unique performance in the modern business world.

"On every hand change and decay I see." In spite of this line, they are shaking up even the old hymns. It is the youngest, but rather the venerable Dr. William Chalmers Covert who leads the drive for modern.

Sues Globe-Trotting Wife

Absence apparently didn't make fonder the heart of Bror G. Dahlbergh, multi-millionaire Chicago manufacturer of sound insulating material. He has brought suit for divorce against his wife, the former Mary Alexander of San Saba, Texas. Two years ago, after the Dahlberghs had been married nine years, they both said that long separations made marriage ideal. Now Dahlbergh, charging desertion by his wife, says she lives too much in Europe with their adopted daughter. Picture shows Mrs. Dahlbergh during vacation jaunt to Miami, Fla., with Dahlbergh in inset at right.

stream-line hymns. He is secretary of the Christian Board of Education of the Presbyterian church, whose content committee is now meeting at Atlantic City. Since his appointment to his present office in 1924, the 68-year-old clergyman has been frankly prodding the church to get in step with the parade. He is the author of a book, "New Furrows in Old Fields." He sees culture falling and assesses the church for its share of responsibility. He lives in Philadelphia. It is reported from Atlantic City that many of new hymns will be "fashioned after the chorals of the German singing societies."

Bella Schwartz, the prettiest girl in the First ward, is generally given Jackson, one-time bad man, tagged credit for reforming "Humpty" in the news again as his bird store gets on fire. When Thomas F. Jackson got out of jail in 1913, after post-graduate terms in four penitentiaries, she married him. Away back in the days of Mayor Van Wyck he had celebrated his one-hundredth arrest. Reformed, he was first a subway boss, then restaurant keeper and then, gratifying his lifetime love of birds and animals, he found happiness in his little pet shop. He reads Voltaire and Huxley and, pragmatically, applies the theory of evolution to human betterment. In his day he was the toughest of the "tough eggs," first with the gas house gang and later with his own crew. Mrs. Jackson, "a blonde cyclone," helps him look after his pet shop and repels intrusions on his privacy.

STATE AIDS FOR SCHOOLS TRIPPLED

Total Increased to $18,400,000 During Present Fiscal Year

Madison—(AP)—State aids paid to counties, towns, villages and school districts have increased from $6,500,937 in 1929 to $18,400,000 during the present fiscal year according to a report made to Governor La Follette's land use committee by E. E. Witte, chief of the legislative reference library.

Mr. Witte found in a study of these disbursements during the last decade that $3,000,000 of the $12,000,000 increase went for elementary schools and the remainder for highway purposes.

Of the total of state aids in the budget for this fiscal year $8,000,000 was set aside for education and approximately $9,000,000 for highways, the remainder going for charitable purposes.

Five years ago the state allowed the localities only $755,000 for state trunk highways and nothing for county trunks or local roads and streets, he said.

In the 1930-31 fiscal year the localities received $4,000,000 in state aid for the state trunk highways, around $3,000,000 for county trunks and $2,000,000 for local roads and streets. Local allotments were increased further by the 1931 highway law, with the increase in the gasoline tax.

For elementary school and the state now pays $6,510,937, which includes money from the common school fund income, equalization funds appropriated under the Callahan law, transportation aid, assistance to school districts with consolidated school buildings and aid for advanced courses in rural schools.

For high school aid $200,000 is paid out, half of it to free high schools, $75,000 to union free high schools and $25,000 to teacher training courses.

On other items of promised assistance to local governments, such as mothers pensions and blind pensions the state has not kept its word, Mr. Witte found.

He made a study of this pension legislation and reported that only $50,000 is paid to the counties administering blind pensions which is insufficient to pay the state's specified share of one-third the total cost.

The mothers' pension law was passed in 1913 and the state promised to pay one third. In 1915 mothers' pension systems were made compulsory on the counties but the state has appropriated only $30,000 since that time to pay its one third share, Witte said.

Since the beginning of the automobile industry in the United States there have been about 60 different makes of cars put on the market.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH CAMPAIGNS AGAINST BROKEN MARRIAGES

Chicago — (AP) — The Episcopal church has begun new efforts to make marriage vows "stick."

Members contemplating matrimony will henceforth receive instructions on the responsibilities of married life.

New rules were distributed among the churches of the Chicago diocese yesterday with a statement from the Rev. Harold Holt, rector of Grace church, Oak Park, in which he said 90 per cent of all divorces were obtained on "slight" grounds.

Three days notice will be required before a marriage can be performed by the church, and couples will receive instructions from the rectors that the creation of a family is the result of married life.

"Wedding affections," said Mr. Holt, "are the sign of wavering affections. Infidelity is not of the body first, but of the mind. Few divorces are secured unless the mind has deserted another."

Three of England's rulers each held sway for more than 50 years. They were Henry III, George III, and Queen Victoria.

DAIRYMEN IN DISCUSSION OF FARM ISSUES

Frank Kloebe Named Director of Holstein-Friesian Association

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—Approximately 30 local breeders, organized as the Forest Junction Holstein-Friesian Breeders' association, held their annual meeting here Tuesday evening. Arthur Schnell, president, was chairman of the evening, presiding during the business transactions and discussions, which continued for several hours. Frank Kloebe was elected to the board of directors, succeeding Edward Kreimann. Arthur Schnell, Harry Schnell, E. A. Rusch, and Edwin Seybold were re-elected.

Discussions of the evening deviated somewhat from topics pertaining purely to the breeding of dairy cattle, and agricultural subjects over a wide range were considered in an attempt to better conditions in the dairymen world. The Wisconsin Dairy union, which is in the process of organization through the efforts of a St. John cheese-maker, came in for its share of discussion; likewise the federal seed loan to farmers. For more convenient access to marketing facilities in Forest Junction, the breeders were discussing the subject of a new road leading from the foot of the east Forest Junction overhead crossing, which the state public service commission had denied last fall. E. A. Rusch, Richard Huebner, and Leonard Seybold were appointed to investigate the matter.

Poor relief matters, apportionment of utility monies to school districts, settlement of routine claims, compilation of the annual report, and the annual town meetings were among the items of business disposed of by the brilliant town board of supervisors at its year-end session here Tuesday.

An increased balance in the treasury over last year's figure, in spite of lower tax receipts, enables the board to recommend a reduced budget to the annual town meeting. This includes a highway tax of only one-half cent and a $400 for grading, just one-half of the amount recommended a year ago. An earlier payment of the town's share of the motor vehicle fuel tax by the county treasurer makes this available for highway purposes this year. Highway expenditures for 1931-1932 in the annual report aggregate $9,090.53. Under snow removal is listed $419.35 representing mostly purchase and handling of snow fence. The snow plow was used only once in the course of the year at a cost of about $50.

Salaries of the town clerk and town treasurer were fixed by the board, respectively, at $225 and $180, representing a cut of ten per cent in last year's amounts.

In the report for year, it was shown that $1,055 had been paid on the standing debt of the club, leaving a balance of $3,000. Annual dues were discussed and left at the same amount. It also was decided that unmarried women members could not be given a lower rate for dues.

New London Flying Organization to Conduct Membership Drive

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The coming of spring has quickened the activities of the New London Glider club, an organization formed last summer for the construction, study and operation of glider planes. The qualifications for membership this year will be a little more stringent, since the department of commerce rules that no boy under sixteen years may be long. On the other hand the local members wish to interest men of over 21 in the club so that it may more quickly assume importance as a center of information. A membership drive is to be made soon.

The boys have accomplished much in the way of fund for experiments and for the purchase of their Bolus said plane. They also have built and equipped a biplane glider which has a 20-foot wing spread and a 41 foot wing chord and a body 12 feet in length. It is equipped with a landing gear and cost $50 to construct. All material was purchased locally. The Bolus, purchased last year, has undergone repairs and will play an important part in the flying activities planned for the summer.

Gordon Roloff recently completed a seminar which differs in construction from the first one made by this member. Members of the club are Gordon Roloff, Walter Arndt, Alvin Brault, Kenneth Steingraber, Luther Koenigke and Warren Shoemaker.

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—a bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

Dr. Leonard's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Schilling Bros. Invitory Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case? Adv.

Don't Neglect YOUR Brakes

BRAKES that are only a "little bit" out of adjustment can cause accidents as easily as those that are actually defective.

A front wheel brake that pulls a little to right or left when you stop may suddenly swerve you into a parallel line of traffic. Rear brakes that drag or grab only slightly may start a skid that can end disastrously.

There is only one way to know your brakes are safe—to know that they will not involve you or your family in an accident. And that way is to have your brakes inspected regularly.

We can give you the skilled inspection and adjustment that is necessary—and we can take care of you quickly and at moderate cost. If your brakes need re-lining we will install American Brakeblok—the new-type brake lining that stops cars quicker—and stays in adjustment longer.

Have your brakes inspected now. Don't wait until it is too late.

Kaukauna—F. M. Charlesworth, city engineer, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Kaukauna Rotary club in Hotel Kaukauna Wednesday noon. According to the report, installation of a three unit disposal plant would be cheaper. The three unit plan would include Kaukauna, Little Chute, and Kimberly as one unit, Appleton as the second unit, and Neenah and Menasha as the third unit.

The program was arranged by Hugh Wellenbach, John Scherer, and Ben Frueh. A 12:30 dinner was served. Election of directors will take place at the next meeting. ## FIREMEN ANSWER 2 CALLS AT NOON

Kaukauna Department Almost Makes Run Earlier in Day

Kaukauna—The fire department answered two calls within a half hour Wednesday during the noon hour. The first alarm coming from the R. P. Nelson building on W. Wisconsin-ave at 11:20, and the second coming from the J. McMorrow building also on W. Wisconsin-ave about noon. This brought the total runs of the department for the day to three, as they had extinguished a blaze at the J. H. Nielsen home early Wednesday morning.

A chimney fire caused the second story of the Nelson building to become filled with smoke. Several cracks in the chimney were responsible for the smoke filled building. Sparks from this chimney were believed to have caused the fire at the McMorrow building, where a small blaze started near the foundation. About $15 damage was caused.

Your Birthday

"ARIES"

If April 1st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. Astrological portents for April 1st indicate a day of unusual and vivid experiences, which will leave mental or spiritual imprints, but nothing of a material nature. Young men in life find truth in the saying that most clouds have their silver linings and conversely most roses have their thorns.

The child born on this April 1st will have an impulsive, somewhat careless nature. It will have both a busy mind and fingers, but its ideas and efforts will not always yield practical returns. It will not lack self-confidence and will, if anything, have a superiority complex. It will be a big-hearted.

Born on April 1st, you find it difficult to get down to the bread and butter side of life. There is much poetry, music and romanticism in your nature, but few of those traits which go into the making of material-minded or commercial type people. Money is a necessity, not an inspiration with you. You never will know its economic value or be able to drive a good bargain.

You do not need to be happy, many of the things which other people regard as important. You can do without all the useless trappings and silly veneers with which the ordinary run of humanity adorn their lives. You want simple not complicated machinery to carry out the essentials of living. You do need clovers, books, friendships, love and beauty. People of your temperament and intelligence do not need the world in general.

If you are fortunate enough to find your real "metier" you will love for your work. You are carried away by those things which truly interest you. If circumstances compel you to grind out a living at some ungenial work, your highly sensitive, nervous nature will suffer greatly thereby, and the sprightliness and youthfulness of your spirit will be killed. You are not versatile and although capable of being almost a genius in some directions, you are almost stupid in others. You love wild life and are fond of all animals.

Successful People Born

Favorites Survive First Round Of State Basketball Tourney

NEENAH MEETS ANTIGO 5 IN CONSOLATION

Red Rockets Defeated by Beloit Yesterday; Score Is 25 and 17

Championship Round
3 p. m.—Mondovi vs. Beloit.
4 p. m.—East De Pere vs. New Glarus.
8 p. m.—Kenosha vs. Superior Central.
9 p. m.—Tomah vs. Wausau.

Consolation Flight
1 p. m.—Antigo vs. Neenah.
2 p. m.—Nekoosa vs. Hudson.
3 p. m.—Platteville vs. Ladysmith.
7 p. m.—Madison East vs. Mayville.

MADISON—(AP)—Most of the favorites in the opening round of the state high school basketball tournament came through with victories yesterday to remain in the running for the state championship.

Notable exceptions were Antigo and Madison East, the former suffering a 25 to 16 defeat by Mondovi and Madison losing to Tomah 18 to 16.

Beloit, pre-tournament favorite for the championship, defeated Neenah, 1930 champion, 25 to 17, and East DePere triumphed over Nekoosa 15 to 12. New Glarus defeated Hudson 15 to 11, Kenosha won from Platteville 31 to 12; Superior Central crushed Ladysmith 40 to 12, and Wausau clinaxed the day's play with a 34 to 12 victory over Mayville.

The opening round indicated that the state will probably be fought out by Beloit, Kenosha, Superior and Wausau.

DePere Comes Back
Kenosha took an early lead against DePere but the latter soon piled up an advantage that was good until the end. Led by Osen and Vanderlist, DePere got five field goals and a free throw in the third period while holding Kenosha to two points. Although the latter quint staged a rally in the last period DePere effectively stalled in the last few minutes.

The Hudson-New Glarus encounter was bitterly fought, both teams stressing a defensive game. New Glarus had a one point lead as the half ended but Hudson went ahead in the second half and the score stood at 11 all with about three minutes to play. Marty and Puemperl then sank a pair of field goals that put the game on ice.

The Kenosha-Delta Devils had no trouble in defeating Platteville. Taking an early lead and finishing the half with a 15 to 4 advantage, Nelson, giant center, secured three field goals and a pair of free throws to lead the scorers. The Kenosha quint displayed a fast offense in addition to an almost impregnable defense.

Superior Central lived up to expectations by swamping Ladysmith. The superior quint had perhaps the best working offense of any team in the tournament and its center, Vern Anderson, and the forwards showed the fans how baskets are made in the north. Ladysmith failed to get a point until the second period and the half ended 18 to 2. Superior came back in the second half to cage goals from every angle and piled up an ever increasing lead.

Tomah Stalls To Win
The Tomah-Madison tilt was a slow affair, neither team getting many shots and both stressing defense. Tomah held a two to four point lead until the last play of the first half when Madison tied the count at 11 all. The Madison quint took a two point lead at the opening of the second half but Tomah ran the score to a tie in short order, then took a three point lead. Tomah elected to stall during the remainder of the game.

Madison got a one point lead to open the game with Wausau but it soon went glimmering. Nims of Wausau ran up a four point lead and his teammates then aided him in bombarding the hoop from all corners. Mayville staged a rally at the end of the first half that put the count at 9 to 8 in Wausau's favor when the gun barked but the Lumberjacks found the basket in the second half and piled up an everlasting lead.

BADGERS PANNED FOR TAKING DOC SPEARS

Oregon Student Group Says U. W. Conduct Unsportsmanlike

Eugene, Ore.—(AP)—Criticism of University of Wisconsin officials for inducing Dr. Clarence W. Spears to break his contract as head football coach at the University of Oregon was voiced by the athletic committee here last night. Spears' breaking his contract also was reported.

A formal statement, issued by the committee after a meeting called to consider possible successors to the coaching job here said:

"The Associated Students of the University of Oregon regret that Dr. Spears has seen fit to break his contract with us without first asking to be released from it. It also regrets the action of the University of Wisconsin and its supporters in urging Spears to break his contract as unbecomingly as to the best interests of intercollegiate athletics expect to carry on their athletic program with the usual degree of success."

Brian Minnigau, chairman of the committee, announced spring football practice would begin today under the direction of Jack O'Brien and Gene Higgs, assistant coaches. They will remain in charge of the work until Dr. Spears' successor is selected.

Sets a Record?

JOE GOSSENS

Joe "Snake" Gossens of the Kimberly club basketball team, Kimberly, who this weekend leads his club in the state amateur tourney at Green Bay claims a scoring record for all time. Gossens has counted 222 baskets this season, his team's records show and 75 free throws. He has completed in 32 games.

Gossens shoved his team into a state tournament play here two weeks ago when he counted seven straight field goals in the second half of a game with Oshkosh Skoles in the district tourney. It was all the points his club scored in the last half.

Training Camp Notes

Raleigh, N. C.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics were on their way here today from Orlando, Fla., to which they bade adieu last night after dropping a game to the Cincinnati Reds, 19 to 9. Even with two home runs by Jimmy Foy, the Mackmen were beaten out when Mickey Heath cast the deciding vote for the Reds by clouting a homer in the ninth.

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—The Phils hope to chalk up their fourth victory over the Atlanta Crackers in as many days today to give a fitting finish to their southern training sojourn.

After the game today, Burt Shotton's charges hurry to catch an early train for home, where they are scheduled to arrive late Friday.

Los Angeles.—(AP)—Jonathan Stone was nursing a spike wound and Charlie Gehring was hoping a rest would ease the recurrent soreness in his throwing arm as the Detroit Tigers headed eastward today, their western training season at an end.

It wasn't a particularly happy occasion and things weren't helped Koch Glasses won two games from the O. K. Taxis in Eagle bowling circles this week and managed to stay in first place and drop the Taxis down to a tie for fourth. The Glasses' 30 pin handicap just earned them the first game and the Taxis cooped the second when Kuntz rolled a neat 212. In the third game the Glasses again won with their handicap. The margin of victory was 8 nines.

Graef Lumber moved up a couple notches when they beat the Stark Hotels in three games. Hy Strutz rolled 212 in the first game, 159 in the second and Schultz won the third with his 190.

Pure Milks acted anything like cellar champions when they rolled three wins over the Modern Cleaners. Krabbe rolled a 118 in the first game, Shannon 265 in the second and Daffman 170 in the third. For the Cleaners Williams with 357 and Mabus with 352 failed to help their club.

Sell Specials took the Goss Specials over the hurdles in three games. Ashauer had a 166 in the first win. Legorousa a 197 in the second and Rawlski a 176 in the third.

What a Team bowlers lost two in the City Major league the other night and had their lead cut to two games. The Van Dyke Coals bumped the leaders in the second and third contests. Otto showed a 206 in the second game and Gould 157 in the third as the Coals coped.

The What a Team won the first game when Fries had 193, Schmidt 212 and Beck 214.

Brecklin Specials won three from the Dollar Cleaners. Kanouse with 209, 214, 222-645 set the pace for the wins.

R. and S. Snobs in second place improved their position with two wins over the Weisgerbers. Strutz 265 accounted for the first win, and Stillman 240 for the second. Strutz had a 351 in the third game but the club lost to the Weisgerbers because of Amy Weisgerbers' 216 and Kranberry's 205. Weisgerber showed a 231, 216, 219-659 during the match but his mates failed him and the total didn't do much good.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(P)—

Headed home the New York Yankees had a pitching problem with them today. No one seemed to know just how to rank the five leading rookies.

Due to his three hit victory over the House of David team yesterday, Manager Joe McCarthy was hoping Paul Anderson, one of the best, Babe Ruth favored Frank Niekola.

GULFPORT, Miss.—(P)—

Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, doesn't think Frank O'Doul's injured wrist will keep him out of action long, but in case it does, Max will play Al Cohen of Murray Howell in O'Doul's outfield place.

SAN FRANCISCO.—(P)—

Manager John McGraw is worrying over the lack of drawing power shown by the New York Giants' exhibition games. Two games at San Francisco have drawn only 1,800 paying customers to a park that holds 24,000.

"We've got to do something to attract fans," McGraw said. "Lack of fight is responsible."

BLOOMING, Miss.—(P)—

Early season fears as to the ability of the Washington Senators to organize a fool-proof pitching staff this year have been dispelled to the extent that Manager Walter Johnson is admittedly pleased by his pitchers.

ALBANY, N. Y.—(P)—

Alvin Crowder, Fred Marberry, Lloyd Brown and Monte Weaver are giving complete satisfaction and will be rotated in regular order. Further down the list, Carl Fischer has as great possibilities as any; Bob Burke may do, and perhaps Frank Ragland; Bob Friedrich has shown enough promise to be retained.

LOS ANGELES.—(P)—

Philip K. Wrigley was to get his first glimpse of the Chicago Cubs today since they were bequeathed to him by his father, the late William Wrigley, Jr.

He may see plenty of action as the Pittsburgh Pirates were there for the opening game of a four-game series which will close the two teams' California spring trip.

MANY BIG LEAGUERS ILL AND AILING AS FIRST GAMES NEAR

Few Managers Able to Report They Start Race With Full Strength

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK—(AP)—It's a rare happy baseball manager today who can count on having his strongest line up available for the opening of the major league season.

Injuries, operations, illness and even death have cut sharply into the roster of eligibles since the training camps sprouted a month ago.

Brooklyn, with two regulars out for an indefinite period, appears to have been hardest hit. Del Bissone, regular first baseman, is in the hospital after an operation on the Achilles tendon and may not be available for months. Frank (Lefty) O'Dell, slugging outfielder, is nursing a bruised right hand that is calculated to keep him out at least until June.

Ed Morris Killed

The Boston Red Sox will live up April 11 against Washington without two players Manager Sam Rice Collins had counted upon. Big Ed Morris, veteran pitcher, was fatally stabbed the day he was to have left for camp and George Stumpf, a promising outfielder purchased from Quilley, Ill., is in bed with intestinal influenza.

An operation for appendicitis cost pitcher Harry Johnson until well up in the campaign and it is doubtful even then he will be of much value to the club. George Piggus, who underwent a similar operation early last season, did not regain his pitching form until the tag end of the race.

Yankee adherents are viewing with the customary alarm a "link" that settled in Babe Ruth's neck the other day and is forcing the big fellow to carry his head at half mast.

Two of the Philadelphia National's four first line pitchers are returning from the south in doubtful condition. Jim Elliott, the club's ace southpaw, is wearing a slab of porous plaster on his back and groaning with every pitch, while Clise Dudley is nursing a sore arm. Chuck Klein, the Phil's powerhouse, has a pair of aching ankles.

Vergez Injured

John McGraw is having much difficulty getting all his New York Giants on the field at the same time. Johnny Vergez, third baseman, is on the bench with an injured knee cap and catcher Frank Hogan also has an uncertain knee, aggravated by a vast surplus of weight that refuses to come off. Adding to McGraw's troubles is the fact that second baseman Hughie Critz still can't get the old whip in the throwing arm. The Giants are reported to be scouting around for another second baseman and another catcher.

Mickey Cochrane, the Athletics' brilliant center fielder, is on the carpet slippers after an operation on an infected foot, but will be ready by opening day if there are no complications. Alvin Crowder, Washington right-hander, has been called home by illness in his family and may not return until after the race starts.

SPEARS BEAT U. W. 4 TIMES AS U. W. COACH

Minneapolis.—(AP)—Minnesota's lengthiest and most sustained football rivalry had more fire than ever today, because Dr. C. W. Spears is going to Wisconsin as head coach. Dr. Spears spent five years as Minnesota football coach prior to two years ago when he joined Oregon. The doctor enjoyed the Gopher side of the argument—his teams won four games from Wisconsin, one tie, lost none.

Now his Badgers will oppose the Minnesotans of B. W. (Bernie) Bertram, who is driving his first Big Ten squad. The coaches' opening encounter is set for Nov. 12 at Madison.

They will continue a series of games that started in 1920, and once has been interrupted—only twice when the Big Ten conference declared a one-year truce among all its rivals.

The score where Spears and Bertram are tied is 10-10. The last time the two teams met was in 1929, when Minnesota won 14-0.

Three Games In April

Three games in April will make the first season of the new Big Ten conference one game less than the old one.

The Big Ten conference's Big Ten teams are all entered in the Big Ten Valley Ball tournament, which will be held at Madison, Saturday, April 8.

All seven pitchers on the University of Alabama baseball team are members here.

A Year Without Rockne

Notre Dame "Carries On" For Loved Sportman

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—Knute Rockne died March 31, 1931. But the "spirit of Knute Rockne" has continued to live in the year since the famous football coach and sportsman was killed in a falling airplane.

His football players, ably directed by Athletic Director Jesse Harper, Senior Coach Harty (Huck) Anderson, Junior Coach John Chevigny and captained by Tommy Larr, carried the victory started by Rockne to 25 consecutive triumphs and a tie before losing the last two games of the season to Southern California and Army.

The Notre Dame golf team, after the initial shock of the tragedy, went out to win all its matches and to take third in the National Collegiate tournament. The basketball team won nine of 13 games. The track team recently completed its indoor schedule without defeat in four dual meets and the Central Intercollegiate conference games. The basketball squad won 15 of 20 games, establishing the longest winning streak, 16 consecutive games, in Notre Dame cage history.

Friends both in and out of the collegiate world began a drive which will result in the Rockne Memorial Field House. Ground for the structure will be broken in the fall.

A shrine to St. Olaf, patron saint of Norway, Rockne's birthplace, will be consecrated soon in Duluth, Minn., student residence on the campus. The St. Olaf altar was paid for by students, the statue of St. Olaf by the Rockne family and the candleabra by South Bend Knights of Columbus.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

NO ONE knows the uncertainty of baseball, or the fickleness of its fortunes better than the veteran Connie Mack.

Connie can recall the dark days when sports writers said the Athletics never would get anywhere until he quit the management of the club.

Three straight pennants are behind him, the prospects of a fourth in success just ahead, but Mack remains quite unshaken the collection of "breaks" that cost his team the chance to win the last world's series and, thereby, shatter major league supremacy.

He told the Rotary club of St. Petersburg about it. He revealed how the Athletics beat Paul Derringer, the young Cardinal pitching star, by waiting out the curve ball he started off with so successfully and then walloping his first one.

He described how Waite Hoyt, in the fifth game, accidentally put a curve ball in the groove which Pepper Martin hit into the stands after the instructions were for Hoyt to

OLDER BOY CAGERS BATTLE FOR TITLE TOMORROW NIGHT

Sammy Ornstein's Specials and Wolverines Clash in Biggest Game

The Older Boy basketball championship of the Y. M. C. A. will be decided Friday evening when the Wolverines, winners of the first round of play and Sammy Ornstein's fearless Specials clash in the title game.

The game will begin at 7:45 and is expected to attract a great crowd of fans and gallant youths who are more than a little person.

The Wolverines took a trimming in the other night in a league game, the Warner Theaters winning a fast battle 19 and 8, and knocking the dope bucket into a cocked hat. The Wolverines led in the first half with two field goals against one for the Theaters. In the second half the Theaters played superb ball, took the lead and held it until the Wolves were trying desperate shots in hopes of tying the score.

Green Bay's Specials won from the A. F. H. 13 and 6. The first half was close with the Specials leading by a 7 and 6 score. In the second half the Specials pulled in front and won easily 13 and 4.

The other game of the series saw the Delta Hi-Y team take a win from the Merchants. The score was 18 and 11, the Delta leading 14 and 4 at the half.

NEW YORK CITY TO KEEP STRICT EYE
ON BATHING SUITS

Anything That Smacks of
"Back to Nature" Styles
Is Out

BY KARL E. KITCHEN

New York—(CPA)—The New York city fathers, who did not even rub their eyes when skirts went above the knees are still pretty particular about anything that smacks of "back to nature" styles in bathing. It seems. And with the continued popularity of the sun bathing craze threatening scenes this summer that will surprise just about the wildest fancy, it looks from here as though the cops will keep in fine condition just chasing into the hinterlands any bather who gets careless about shoulder straps and such like.

You can take it from no less an authority than the police at Coney Island that Mrs. Grundy will continue to limit bathing suit styles. There isn't a chance of any maternal masterpieces in subtraction setting by. Costumes that began about here, run a brief shrieking course to about here, and then off in a general southwesterly direction to somewhere about there, will be taboo. If a man bather is reckless enough to appear only in pants and without a tunic the excuse that his doctor ordered a sun bath will get him nowhere, the cops warn, except into a nice, shady jail.

The ordinance provides that no body shall wear on the public bathing beaches a bathing suit which indecently exposes any part of the body," quoted one police captain to a reporter who made a survey of such places as Long beach, Jones beach, Southampton, Asbury park and other beaches. "Last year one of the boys picked up a woman who'd lost some buttons off her bathing suit shoulder straps and brought her into the station."

"Madam, you're indecent looking," I said, and she snapped back that she guessed she was no worse than what you see every day on the musical comedy stage. So I said to her, firmly but kindly, that the public beaches are no musical comedy stage and that was that."

John McCormack had a busy night last night. He sang a song recital in Carnegie hall, made a speech, had his photograph taken by flash light, paid a tribute to the memory of Chauncey Olcott, and revived songs he sang at his first recital in New York. And every bit of it was devoured with eager appetite by an audience which filled all the seats and occupied some hundreds of chairs on the stage.

his services as soloist at the second concert in the series of five Tuesday evening programs to be given at the Metropolitan Opera house by the musicians' symphony orchestra, composed of 200 of the best players among the unemployed players of New York. He is overlooking his stay in America for the express purpose of singing at the concert on April 12 for the benefit of his colleagues. He remarked to his audience last night:

"Just remember, the musical profession has never been appealed to in vain in the sacred name of charity. Remember the joys that the heavenly art has brought to you and the consolation it has brought to many a saddened heart. Remember how we sang to you to 'Keep the Home Fires Burning,' how we counseled you in song to 'Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag and Smile'; how, many a time, we have, as Moore says, 'Forgotten Our Own Grievs to Be Happy With You.' Why, even today we have the president of these United States asking some one to croon us out of the valley of depression and the slough of despond."

Vicksburg, Miss. —(AP)—A jury in Warren county court late Tuesday convicted Fred Howard of Manitowoc, Wis., of kidnaping Alton Joseph, 8, last February. The youth was remanded to jail pending sentence. Mrs. Frank Howard, who came here following her son's arrest, testified he had the "mind of a 5-year-old child," and had attended a school for the feeble minded in Wisconsin.

GASOLINE IS MADE FROM COTTONSEED,
SCIENTISTS TOLD

Cost of Manufacture Too High to Compete With Commercial Products

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

New Orleans — (AP)—Making high grade gasoline instead of salad oil out of cottonseed is chemistry's latest addition to the list of potential motor fuel sources.

The process for converting cottonseed oil into anti-knock gasoline was described to the American Chemical society today by Dr. Gustav Egloff of Chicago.

The present cost of 35 to 40 cents a gallon is too high to make cottonseed gasoline a competitor with established commercial products in this country.

The cottonseed oil is run through a metal coil at a temperature of 900 degrees Fahrenheit and a pressure of 150 pounds per square inch. This breaks down and rearranges the atoms forming the oil, so that the oil yields a Pandora's box of unexpected products.

First comes a little more than 50 percent of gasoline. Next emerges a heavy fuel for Diesel engines. After that is coke for the furnace. Then there are 13 different gases, some of them commercially valuable. Last of all comes water—which is all that is left of the original cottonseed oil. This water is the only waste product.

Furthermore, Dr. Egloff said, good alcohol can be obtained from certain of the cottonseed vapors. Likewise a widely sold variety of anti-freeze mixture for automobile radiators. Adding a little sodium produces a rubber-like substance.

There are potential uses for this kind of an apparatus, Dr. Egloff said, in countries where gasoline is not cheap. For the apparatus can use other products than cottonseed oil equally well. It will "crack" with equal ease vegetable oils, fish oils such as are abundant in Japan, shale oils and coal tar oils.

Reports New Process

A new improvement for the petroleum industry's problems of separating the various grades of gasoline, oils and gases was reported by Dr. M. R. Fenske of Pennsylvania State college. This process is called "fractionating." He credited the work to development of ideas originally advanced by Dr. W. K. Lewis of Massachusetts Institute of Technology under the name of "key components." The result obtained by Dr. Fenske's apparatus is like considering the liquid within it as being a rod of wood. Down in the middle of this rod is a substance which the oil man wants. Formerly he had to cut off the top of the rod and keep whitening it down until he reached the section desired. By Fenske's method he can treat the liquid column as if it were a rod and saw out the section wanted.

Mathematics is an important part of this process, as it enables the refiner to calculate the results accur-

Elissa Landi, Hollywood
Star Also Is Authoress

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
(Copyright, 1932, by Conn. Press)

Hollywood — (CPA) — Elissa Landi, who has played the lead in half a dozen pictures and written two books since her arrival in Hollywood about a year ago, is now engaged in playing the lead in another picture and writing a third book. The third book contains "quite a bit"—as Miss Landi said today in her beautiful accent—of American slang.

American slang is the most interesting slang in the world," Miss Landi explained over a plate of American ham and eggs in the Fox studio lunchroom. "I know English slang and Austrian but American slang had me stumped for a while. It's making a dent in all languages now, you know. The French are adopting American slang and so are the English. On the other hand, the Americans are adopting slang expressions from various countries and before long we shall have a slang international language which is a bally sight better than no international language at all."

"Even the animals begin to understand it. I went riding on a black snorting little mare the other day. Her mouth was so soft that you couldn't guide her by the bridle and she wouldn't stop running."

I said "whoa" in various tones of voice but she paid no attention. At last I shouted: "Whoa, you great big stuff!" and she stopped instantly."

Plenty of Slang
Miss Landi giggled. The more she giggles and the more she talks slang, the more dantly ladylike she looks. Not everybody can do it. But not everybody is the grand daughter of the Empress Elizabeth of Austria.

"The Austrians have a lovely bit of slang that I'd like to see introduced into America," Miss Landi continued. "You understand, slang is interesting because it's so vital. And there's been slang in all ages. Shakespeare used chunks of it. In Austria if a man breaks a date or does something that annoys you and says, 'I'm sorry,' you counter with

"and what can I buy with that?" It expresses everything.

"My favorite American slang expression right now is 'haywire.' It's been a right expression in the west ever since pioneer days. The men in the covered wagons used to have all the wire from the bales of hay and use it to mend their wagons. As a result everyone had yards and yards of haywire which rolled up into the most fantastic shapes and got into people's way, especially bothering the women who wore those long, voluminous dresses. It's perfectly fascinating to study the origin of slang expressions. I hope to qualify as an expert in slang research some day."

Expert Speaker
Miss Landi, who is as versatile a person as you'll find in the movie colony, has already qualified as an expert in sound effects. Whenever there's a mob in one of her pictures, she always mutters and yells with the mob. The mob is supposed to be muttering against herself. The other day she talked in cockney dialect during a brief scene in which Miss Landi did not personally appear—only her voice being used—and when they wanted somebody to scream twice in two places Miss Landi did the screaming. You remarked that she could do all the sounds except perhaps the horse's hoofs. "I can do that, too," Miss Landi retorted, and clicking her tongue against the roof of her mouth, she did.

Burlington, Vt.—L. M. Greene, instructor in poultry husbandry at the University of Vermont, is a little worried about his chickens' nerves. He has moved his laboratory into the music building. "Won't the peeping chicks disturb the singers?" he was asked. "Not as much as they will disturb the chicks," he replied.

"I adore pretty undies—wish I could get as many new ones as you do, Faith"

"Heavens, these aren't new, it's just the way I take care of them. Here's my secret"

*"Of course, I wash them after every wearing, because perspiration left in silk will fade it and actually rot the threads. And I always use Lux. You know it just floats out perspiration acids and odors and leaves the color and silk lovely looking. Just a swish through the Lux suds, a rinse, and my undies come out fresh, sweet and pretty as new!"

Fashions are to be feminine this spring, slightly mysterious, and wholly alluring. Paris and New York designers seem to favor the new figure silhouette—as is signified by softly emphasized bosoms, pinched-in waists, rounded hips, ankles that seem smaller because of slightly larger calves.

These frocks are unusual at $1.95 and $2.95. There are piques, both narrow and wide waist, meshes and linens. In plain colors trimmed with contrasting pipings, buttons and often with trim patent leather belts. Attractive prints are included in the group.

"STRETCHES BOTH WAYS"

That new, tissue thin elastic that stretches UP and DOWN, as well as AROUND! It simply cannot ride up, and eliminates stocking runs. It is soft, porous, no rubbery odor. Light as air, thin as paper, smooth as silk—it holds you firmly, yet you won't know you have it on! It just fits, and gives, like your skin!

"Le Gant" Corselette is cut to the waist in back, and those lacings give you a cinched in waist. The bandeau section is of dainty lace and the shoulder straps are non-slauding because they're of velvet backed satin ribbon, thin and invisible. Buckleless garters that lie flat and smooth, with not a line to show under your sheathed hip evening gown.
